House Votes To Double Nixon Salary

Would Be First Presidential Pay Hike Since 1949

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to raise Richard M. Nixon's presidential salary to $200,000 a year, double the pay President Johnson received.

If approved by the Senate and signed by President Johnson, the raise would be only the fourth since George Washington took the job for $25,000 and the first since 1949 when Harry S. Truman's salary was increased from $75,000 to $100,000 yearly.

The new salary would be supplemented by a $50,000 annual expense allowance, which is taxable, and a $40,000 yearly travel allowance, which is not.

With only one strong dissent, from a Republican, the House members rushed the bill through by voice vote Monday. To be effective it must become law before Nixon is sworn in at noon Jan. 20, since the Constitution forbids changing a president's salary during his term.

The presidential increase was recommended by a special commission headed by Frederick R. Kappel, former chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. It also suggested sweeping increases in salaries paid other federal officials—including congressmen—but there is no constitutional deadline on those.

President Johnson is expected to make his recommendations, based on the Kappel Report, when he submits his budget to Congress later this month.

The only vocal opposition came from Republican Rep. H. R. Gross of Iowa, who said he feared the bill would set the stage for fat increases for members of Congress and others.

The recommendations for other raises will be handled differently.

The Senate is expected to take up the presidential pay-raise bill next week, in time for Johnson to sign it before Inauguration Day.

See Electoral System Shift This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite defeat of an effort to change the vote of a maverick presidential elector, many congressmen remain hopeful for some electoral reform this year.

"Electoral reform is inevitable in the first session of the 91st Congress," Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen said Monday after the resolution was defeated 229 to 169 in the House and 58 to 33 in the Senate.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, who cosponsored the resolution with Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., said the debate did not reassure him of chances for specific change.

But, he told a news conference, "I'm hopeful despite my pessimism."

O'Hara said he thought Monday's debate ultimately would help promote reform.

"This demonstrates the need for reform of the electoral system," said O'Hara, who announced he will shortly introduce a proposed constitutional amendment. He did not say what reforms it will embody, but he is on record in favor of direct presidential elections.

The resolution was prompted by Dr. Lloyd W. Bailey of Rocky Mount, N.C., who voted for George Wallace, even though President-elect Nixon carried the state. Only rarely has an elector voted contrary to the popular vote in his state.

Official certification of the electoral vote was held over two hours while the House and Senate debated the challenge separately.

They reconvened the joint session again in the House chamber after defeating the resolution and heard results announced as Nixon 301, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey 191 and Wallace 46.

OSU Rally Slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A mammoth student rally to honor Ohio State University's football team, Rose Bowl and national champions, will be staged in St. John Arena on the campus Wednesday evening.

Plane Crash Kills 11; Identical To Other

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP) — For the second time in two weeks, an Allegheny Airlines propjet crashed in bad weather while trying to land at the Bradford Airport.

Eleven people were killed. Seventeen others, most of them left hanging from their seatbelts when the Convair 580 flipped upside down Monday night, crawled to safety on a snow-swept golf course.

A 10-man investigating team from the National Transportation Safety Board, concerned about the "amazing similarities" of the two accidents, went to work today to find out what happened. A similar team has been investigating the Christmas Eve crash of an Allegheny flight eight miles away that killed 20 of 47 persons aboard.

"There was no panic," said Sandy Cherico of North East, Pa., a passenger. "It all happened too fast. The 'no-smoking' sign had already come on and the stewardess was checking the seat belts."

Suddenly, said John Schacke, 16, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., "it felt like someone was slamming the left side with a hammer. We ran into tree limbs, turned over and slid. I wound up hanging upside down. Someone yelled to go out the back."

Outside the survivors organized and went back for those who couldn't get out.

"No one was thinking of themselves," said Chet Messervey, 56, of Downingtown, Pa. "We were just trying to get out everybody we could. The school boys were wonderful. They handled themselves like men. I'm proud of them."

Ohio House Gets Liberalized Slate Of New Election Laws

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nine election reform bills which would boost the number of people eligible to vote in Ohio were sent to the Ohio House State Government Committee Monday.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said he gave the bills to Chairman Lloyd George Kerns R-16 Peoria.

If adopted, Ohio's election laws would be among the most liberal in the nation. Brown's proposals would provide for those who get caught in a mobile society by antiquated registration laws by making it easier for college students and those who move to register and vote.

Brown said he would have other bills later and would send them to the Senate. One will be an omnibus bill concerning requirements for write-in candidates. It may include a proposal requiring write-in candidates to make their intentions known 45 days before an election.

Brown noted that the legislature would have to pass legislation concerning the formation of new political parties in Ohio. He said the U.S. Supreme Court when it ordered the name of third-party presidential candidate George C. Wallace printed on the Ohio ballot, in effect said that Ohio's laws on third parties were too restrictive.

Brown said he had some "suggestions" on third party legislation, but would leave the bill drafting to the legislature.

He said the law requiring a third party to obtain signatures of at least 15 per cent of the number of persons voting in the last gubernatorial election is too tough.

"I think 10 per cent is just about right," he said.

The nine bills submitted to the House Monday would:

—Require use of voting machines or other automatic devices in all counties by 1979.

—Permit college and university students to vote in the county where their school is located if they acquire a permanent residence in that county.

—Make voter registration mandatory in all 88 counties by

Saigon Readies Peace Plan Reds Certain To Turn Down

SAIGON (AP) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky denied today that he is the author of a plan to split the Vietnam peace talks into three sections, a plan which North Vietnam and the Viet Cong are certain to reject. But Ky did not deny that the plan was under consideration by the Saigon government.

Through a spokesman, Ky said that all suggestions made by him or others at the Paris talks had been approved in advance by President Nguyen Van Thieu.

"The vice president strongly denies foreign reports saying he is the author of a peace project or scheme," said the spokesman.

Reports from Paris said the new plan was being discussed in Saigon by Thieu and South Vietnamese national security council. These reports said the plan provides:

1. The United States, South Vietnam and North Vietnam would discuss military questions in Paris.

2. Representatives of Saigon and Hanoi would meet, perhaps on a neutral ship off the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, to discuss relations between the two Vietnams. The negotiations could include talks on such internal affairs as communications, trade and civilian traffic.

3. Representatives of the Saigon government and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front would meet in South Vietnam, perhaps in Saigon's presidential palace, to discuss South Vietnamese political and security problems.

An official source close to the Saigon delegation in Paris said the United States has been fully informed of the proposals and that "President Johnson himself favors them." The Saigon delegation, however, officially disclaims responsibility for the plan.

The Ky format undoubtedly would be unacceptable to Hanoi and the NLF because it squeezes the NLF out of the Paris negotiations, denies it international recognition, and reinforces the Saigon contention that the Viet Cong and the NLF are controlled by North Vietnam.

The proposal appeared to be an attempt to meet Slovakia's demand for its share in the federal power structure and at the same time reassure the Czech public that Smrkovsky, considered the foremost liberal in the party leadership, would not be driven out by Soviet pressure.

The proposal would balance the top power rank between the Czechs and Slovaks in line with the federal system put into effect Jan. 1. At the present time the country's four top leaders include three Czechs, President Ludvik Svoboda, Premier Oldrich Cernik and Smrkovsky, and only one Slovak, party chief Alexander Dubcek.

Soviet enmity toward Smrkovsky is well known. His cause has been taken up by worker and student groups angered by the abandonment of press freedom and other reforms under Soviet pressure.

The proposal by the Czech Communists was the first public recommendation for Smrkovsky's future.

Bare Plan To Double City Income Tax Limit

Reagan Gives '69 Program To Legislature

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, offering California his 1969 program, called on the state legislature today to strike hard against campus turmoil by increasing penalties for students, nonstudents and faculty involved in disturbances.

The Republican governor, in his annual "State of the State" message, also offered "a substantial personal income tax reduction." He didn't specify who would get it, but previously he had promised it to middle-income families hit hardest by his 1967 billion-dollar tax increase.

Pledging another year of economy, Reagan said, "Under no circumstances will I support or sign into law any tax increase."

And, he asked for new pornography controls and new weapons in the war against crime, including giving police authority to use electronic listening devices when a judge approves.

The speech was prepared for a joint session of the legislature. Republicans now hold narrow majorities in the Senate and Assembly, where Democrats had majorities in the first two years of Reagan's administration.

Many of his plans for the third year of his term were spelled out in general terms, but Reagan got more specific when he talked about the issue of unrest on California's public college campuses.

"Such proposals would, among other things, increase the legal penalties for assaults on teachers and students, provide for the expulsion of students or the dismissal of teachers who interfere with the educational process and strengthen the trespass laws to keep trouble makers off the campus," he said.

Czech Power Plan Given

PRAGUE (AP) — The Czech wing of the Communist party proposed Monday night that a Slovak replace Josef Smrkovsky as chairman of the National Assembly and that Smrkovsky become deputy chairman and head of one of the assembly's two houses.

The proposal appeared to be an attempt to meet Slovakia's demand for its share in the federal power structure and at the same time reassure the Czech public that Smrkovsky, considered the foremost liberal in the party leadership, would not be driven out by Soviet pressure.

The proposal would balance the top power rank between the Czechs and Slovaks in line with the federal system put into effect Jan. 1. Sirhan Trial Slated Today; New Delay May Be Asked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was to go on trial today in a heavily guarded courtroom on charges he murdered Sen. Robert F. Kennedy but there was a possibility the defense would seek a fourth postponement.

Grant B. Cooper, one of three defense attorneys, said Monday it might be in Sirhan's best interests if the trial were delayed.

Defense motions and jury selection are expected to take two weeks and presentation of evidence by both sides two months or more. There are indications that more than 200 witnesses will be called.

Sirhan, 24, a Jordanian who came to this country as a boy with his family, is accused of shooting Kennedy last June 5 in a kitchen corridor of the Ambassador Hotel as the New Yorker left a victory celebration following California's Democratic presidential primary.

Five bystanders were wounded, and Sirhan also is being tried on five counts of assault with intent to commit murder.

Judge Herbert V. Walker, 69, dean of the Los Angeles Criminal Division, will hear the trial in Superior Court. Walker decreed the death penalty 21 years ago for Caryl Chessman, convicted kidnaper who died in the gas chamber in 1960 after 12 years of appeals.

Catholic Chaplain Honored Posthumously

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Roman Catholic chaplain, killed as he administered last rites to dying and wounded men in Vietnam, is the second chaplain to receive the Medal of Honor.

The medal, being awarded posthumously today, goes to Lt. Vincent R. Capodanno, 37, of Staten Island, N.Y., who extended his duty tour in Vietnam for six months, was killed Sept. 4, 1967, during a battle at a Marine outpost in the Que Son Valley, 30 miles south of Da Nang.

Senate Bill Would Gag Popular Vote

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio General Assembly, which usually moves slowly into its lawmaking, was confronted on its first day Monday with a controversial bill to raise city income taxes.

Sen. John H. Weeks R-25 Cleveland, apparently worried about proposals for a county-wide income tax, introduced two bills in the Senate.

One would allow city councils to adopt a maximum 2 per cent city income tax without a vote of the people. The present limit is 1 per cent.

The bill provides that a tax of more than 2 per cent would have to be approved by a simple majority at an election. To increase the present 1 per cent tax a 55 per cent majority is needed.

Weeks also introduced a bill to allow a municipality three years to notify a taxpayer of delinquent income taxes and an additional six years for recovery of those taxes.

A legislative committee studying tax revision, headed by Rep. Albert H. Sealy Jr. R-84, Dayton, earlier proposed county-imposed taxes on income.

Although the House confined itself to routine business, the Senate moved on to the introduction of bills and resolutions. Both houses met for about two hours.

The lawmakers braved a bitter cold and blowing snow to come to Columbus to be sworn in for the 108th General Assembly.

Major issues this session will include substantial financing and new programs for education, especially vocational and technical, substandard housing and pollution control. Legislators will have to determine to what extent programs should be funded and if this would require tax increases.

The legislature will also determine how the $759 million provided in State Issue No. 1 passed by voters Nov. 5 will be divided among state departments for capital construction. (Continued on Page 2)

Bad Weather Just Keeps Rollin' Along

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter storms scattered rain and snow through the Northeast and the Pacific Northwest today while a fresh blast of arctic cold rolled into the Plains and Midwest.

Snow blanketed a region from Michigan to New York and south into the central Appalachians. One-and-two-inch accumulations were common. Rain dampened sections on either side of the snow belt.

A heavy snow watch was issued for Maine, and travelers warnings were in effect because of expected snow across most of the Virginias and western North Carolina and from western New York into New England.

The storm in the Northwest spilled rain into coastal areas of Washington and Oregon and spread snow inland through the Rockies. Heavy snows were indicated in the mountains of western Montana and northern Idaho.

Temperatures fell below zero once more over the northern Plains and Midwest and teetered near zero through Iowa and northern Illinois. Fargo, N.D., registered -15 well before daybreak.

The Southeast warmed considerably from Monday's early morning freeze in which the mercury tumbled to 15 degrees in Atlanta.

Senate Bill Would Gag Popular Vote

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio General Assembly, which usually moves slowly into its lawmaking, was confronted on its first day Monday with a controversial bill to raise city income taxes.

Sen. John H. Weeks R-23 Cleveland, apparently worried about proposals for a county-based income tax, introduced two bills in the Senate.

One would allow city councils to adopt a maximum 2 per cent city income tax without a vote of the people. The present limit is 1 per cent.

The bill provides that a tax of more than 2 per cent would have to be approved by a simple majority at an election. To increase the present 1 per cent tax a 55 per cent majority is needed.

Weeks also introduced a bill to allow a municipality three years to notify a taxpayer of delinquent income taxes and an additional six years for recovery of those taxes.

A legislative committee studying tax revision, headed by Rep. Albert H. Sealy Jr. R-84, Dayton, earlier proposed county-imposed taxes on income.

Although the House confined itself to routine business, the Senate moved on to the introduction of bills and resolutions. Both houses met for about two hours.

The lawmakers braved a bitter cold and blowing snow to come to Columbus to be sworn in for the 108th General Assembly.

Major issues this session will include substantial financing and new programs for education, especially vocational and technical, substandard housing and pollution control. Legislators will have to determine to what extent programs should be funded and if this would require tax increases.

The legislature will also determine how the $759 million provided in State Issue No. 1 passed by voters Nov. 5 will be divided among state departments for capital construction. (Continued on Page 2)

The adult farmers program under the vocational agriculture program was also approved by the board.

Area Woman Hurt In Auto Mishap

A Williamsport area woman was injured in a one car accident in Fairfield County Sunday, according to a report received by the Pickaway County Sheriff Monday.

Dorothy Lutz, 26, of Route 2, Williamsport, was taken to Berger Hospital for treatment of abrasions and contusions of her legs and chest.

She told sheriff's deputies that she was driving on a gravel road near Buena Vista about 3:30 p.m. Sunday when the accident occurred. The car went out of control after she applied her brakes while rounding a curve in the gravel road, she stated. The vehicle then went off the left side of the road into a creek, according to the report.

Controversial legislation will include juvenile court reform, statewide water fluoridation, recognition of public employee unions and Sunday liquor sales.

At Monday's Senate session three senators didn't waste any time introducing a one time controversial proposal. The resolution proposes that the Ohio Constitution be amended to lower the state's minimum voting age from 21 to 19.

A similar resolution will be introduced in the House with both chambers expected to approve it. But before becoming effective it would have to be passed in a statewide referendum.

Also introduced in the Senate were three bills which would: —Provide protection for Ohio school children from communicable tuberculosis by requiring all teachers and school personnel to undergo annual TB tests. It also includes provisions for tests for pupils.

—Relieve recipients of any responsibility or obligation of unsolicited merchandise sent through the mail.

—Prohibit trains from blocking crossings for more than five minutes if stopped or switching or more than seven minutes if moving.

City Police Appointments Announced

Circleville Chief of Police Robert Temple announced that William Pontious has been certified as a regular police officer.

In making the announcement today, the chief noted the certification is retroactive to Jan. 1. Pontious has been serving on the force under a provisional appointment.

Temple also reported that Jim Francis has been given a provisional appointment and has been temporarily assigned to the 3 to 11 p.m. work trick.

Lowell Ferguson is the dispatcher from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. and Bill Stevens has been transferred from that trick to the 3 to 11 p.m. work period.

The city police department is still two regular officers short of its authorized strength. In a recent pay hike passed by council, the city fathers also authorized the appointment of an additional sergeant.

Chief Temple said the post will not be filled until the force is brought up to its full strength.

Baby Care Course Slated By Red Cross

Mrs. James Baehr, chairman of nursing services, announced a course in "Mother and Baby Care" to be held at the American Red Cross Chapter Headquarters beginning Jan. 13, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

She will be assisted by Mrs. Robert McCrady. The course will include information regarding preparation for the expected baby and how to care for it and its needs during the early weeks of life.

All expectant parents, both mothers and fathers are invited to attend this course. If they are perplexed for any reason, this is an opportunity to find answers to questions. The training will mean greater confidence for the parents and health and happiness for the baby.

There is no charge for the course, which will last about six weeks.

Borrow Against Taxes
YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—The Youngstown Board of Education voted Monday to borrow $1.8 million dollars against taxes to be collected this year.

Earlier at a reorganization meeting the board elected Abe Harshman, a certified public accountant, as president to succeed Dr. Earl Young.

Post Office Peak Season Now Over

According to J. White, assistant postmaster, approximately 294,000 pieces of mail were cancelled in the Circleville facility during the two-week period Dec. 10-24, prior to Christmas. The 1968 total figure is less than the 309,000 pieces processed in the same period of 1967.

Aside from the pre-Christmas mail, the local post office handles the biggest volume of mail the first of each month. In a two-week period of time, including the first day of the month, the local postal facilities cancels approximately 80,000 pieces of mail, exclusive of metered mail, according to Mr. White.

Cancelled mail through the post office prior to the holiday season therefore increased four times the normally heavy volume.

Was the noted decrease in volume of Christmas mail due to the increase cost of postage? Not according to the assistant postmaster. The day of the week on which Christmas falls determines the total volume and not necessarily current postal rates.

Christmas mail through the Circleville Post Office is sorted and delivered by the regular staff and regular subs. Each clerk and carrier works overtime to the maximum number of hours permitted to see that the 'mail gets through' to patrons. Using veteran workers to capacity provides more efficiency and a smoother operation than would be noted with part-time untrained personnel during the seasonal rush on the postal facility, to quote the spokesman.

Danville's New Park-Mall

Park-Mall Idea May Retard Downtown Decay

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Central Press Association
Correspondent

DANVILLE, Ill. — Will a park-mall shopping area stop downtown "decay?" In many instances it will, promoters think. The downtown park-mall pictured here is part of a city updating plan at Danville, east central Illinois town of 42,000. Vermilion Street, the hub of the business section of the town, leading to the courthouse square, was used in this initial attempt to update "downtown."

The two-block-long park-mall started from a plan on paper to a "concrete" reality in less than two years, working from a master plan submitted by a research firm. The city fathers here were unanimous in their decision that something drastic had to be done to the city's hub, its courthouse square, to bring trade back to the stalemated downtown area.

Opened last November, the park-mall is a handsome shopping-dining area for young and old. Children play in complete safety from traffic hazards. Green grass, fountains, sculpture, lounging seats, playground equipment, are all a part of the development.

The possibilities of a park-mall are tremendous. It gives an "old" city a distinct new face, modern, stimulating trade with bold new shops and services.

The one problem where a mall is built its traffic — and parking. Danville solved its traffic problem by using two parallel streets on each side, turned them into one-way traffic arteries.

For parking, several blocks of old, outdated buildings near the mall were leveled to provide paved parking lots. The city is also building a modern, multi-floored indoor parking building, two blocks distant.

More than 110 businessmen contributed to the Greater Danville Development Foundation to finance the building of the park-mall. The construction contract totaled only $112,000, itemized as follows: site preparation and removal of paving in the two-block street $16,389.64; grading $5,553; paving $41,828.35; play equipment, benches and stools $5,942; pools, pits and pool curb $5,210; drainage $7,034; gas, water and plumbing $6,480; electrical $10,065; planting, sodding and topsoil $12,488.

Before the park-mall was built, many asked "why?" The questions were aimed at the city government's agreement to pay up to $50,000 toward construction.

One of the main arguments was relative to the large percentage of property and sales tax the city received, generated by the downtown area. If this area became stagnant, a decline in property values would surely follow. And when these values drop, tax money would decrease as well.

So this tax decline would have to be made up elsewhere. This "elsewhere" would include residential areas for the simple fact there was no alternative. When the mall movement started, its proponents cited the existence of vacant stores as evidence that downtown decay had already started.

Now, with the park-mall complete and operating, there are no more vacant stores. New shops in every description take their place. A new image is given downtown Danville. Word of mouth brings more and more people.

Now, with the park-mall type easy on the eye, it is a new, safe way to stop and dine with the family. The charm of this mall is enhanced by flowering and non-flowering trees; 3,000 yards of Merion bluegrass; 72 shrubs and more than 100 evergreens.

Danville folk believe it has stopped their downtown "decay." In fact, already they are envisioning doubling the size of the mall.

Big-City Ohio Negro Policemen Do Good Job

By EDWARD C. WORDEN
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's three largest cities have fewer Negro policemen than are sought, but those hired are doing their jobs well.

A check with police departments at Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus shows that Negroes are not categorized for special assignments. In general, they become men in blue first, men with black skin second.

Columbus has about 30 Negroes among its 807 police personnel.

In Cleveland, there are 165 Negroes on the 2,150-man force, and Cincinnati has 50 among its 900 policemen.

"We don't treat them differently," said Columbus Lt. Ralph Decker, head of public information. "Our men are not assigned to particular work because of their race."

Columbus has recruitment problems because of an image — and it's acute among minority groups and college students, according to Lt. Donald Bryant, director of planning and research. The image has policemen as enemies of minority groups.

Pope Gets Word From Mayor Alioto's Wife

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mayor Joseph Alioto says his wife doesn't believe in mincing words—even with the Pope.

Alioto, who just returned from a trip abroad, said that during an audience they had with Pope Paul VI the mayor approached the subject of appointment of a cardinal to the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco as "softly and diplomatically as I could."

The mayor said he mentioned that San Francisco was founded by a Roman Catholic and had been named after a Catholic saint.

"My wife spoke up in Italian and said what I was trying to say was that I wanted a cardinal for San Francisco," said Alioto. "Angelina is a little more blunt about those things."

Joseph McManamon said. Cleveland's recruiting drive is "possibly a little stronger" in the Negro areas, "but not that much stronger," he said.

Columbus Police Chief Robert Baus said, "Police are clannish."

Baus said Negro policemen are well received by white policemen. While he thinks black members of the force are necessary and plans to intensify Negro recruitment, the Columbus chief refuses to adjust hiring standards.

"Some advocate this," Baus said. "But we have to maintain quality of our personnel, and we have been doing just that."

Some Negroes in Columbus have become unpopular with Negroes after joining the department. The chief said he was aware of cases where "friends tended to shy away" from the Negro policemen because of the "dual role." Baus noted that a policeman is in a minority role to begin with.

Columbus Brown, a Negro patrolman in Cleveland said he finds black policemen have the same problems as white policemen.

"My neighbors don't even know I'm a policeman," Brown said. "And there's no discrimination since I joined the force three years ago."

Cincinnati Capt. Robert Roncker, training officer for recruits, said he has heard no complaints from Negroes on the force.

"They've got it good," Roncker said.

Some Negroes have not felt a split in "allegiance" since they joined the force. Others, like George Edmond, 22, who was attending the Cincinnati police academy, find it different.

"I did have some neighbors who frowned on the idea," Edmond said. "Some gave me the cold shoulder, although most aren't that way. They think it will be a lot of pressure on me though."

The Cincinnati recruit said black militants called him an

"ex-soul brother."

Herman Manus of Columbus is the only Negro in the current recruit class of 28. In a few weeks he'll probably be on the streets, but he thinks it's early for predictions.

"They tell us in training to treat people as equals, that's all," Manus said. "Within my race there will be all kinds, just like any other race."

Manus, 23, sought the Columbus job after spending 14 months in Vietnam. He said he sees the police position as "a good job, and an honorable one."

CATV Laws Are Voided

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The cities of Fremont and Sandusky have been prevented by federal court from enforcing ordinances designed to regulate CATV.

U.S. District Judge Donald J. Young issued the injunctions Monday, holding that such regulations were invalid and unconstitutional.

"CATV is a communicator of news, thoughts and ideas and has therefore approached the area of freedom of speech and of the press and is protected by the First Amendment," Young said.

The injunctions were sought by Wonderland Ventures, a subsidiary of Lamb Communications, Inc. of Toledo, operator of CATV and television stations.

Arthur M. Ingram, president of Lamb Communications, hailed the decision as "a landmark in the CATV industry."

Not Insurance

Social security has been called many things during its three decades of existence, but a legitimate form of insurance it is not.

Some of its more eager proponents in years past have tried to paint social security as insurance, but the present occupant of the White House apparently has decided the ruse has gone far enough.

At any rate, the administration has sent to the House Ways and Means Committee a proposal to put a limit on social security payments to federal workers who are covered by civil service retirement benefits. Many of these employees once worked in private industry, where they paid into the social security fund and thus are eligible to participate in its retirement benefits.

Social security planners are having difficulties balancing their books as more and more contributors reach retirement age and begin taking instead of giving. This has been made all the more critical by the addition of medicare, and the heavy drain it imposes on the Treasury.

So someone decided that as the purpose of social security really wasn't to insure all who contributed to it, but to provide some level of subsistence to the retired or incapacitated who otherwise would have no income, then it is a short step to the premise that those who already have a retirement income really do not need social security benefits — or at least not all to which they otherwise would be entitled.

Probably the next step by those who would deprive civil servants of their "insurance" will be to look at private retirement plans to determine how much beneficiaries of those programs might be able to forgo under the social security arrangement.

This is clear: No member of Congress who supports the White House's Indian-giver scheme can refer to this as an insurance plan ever again.

Prices At New High

A boom accompanied the end of 1968 — an inflationary boom, that is. Estimates are that the year recorded an inflation spiral of about 4.7 percent.

This is the largest increase in the cost of living in 17 years, since the 5.9 percent increase during the Korean war year of 1951. A drop in the work week in November combined with the cost of living increase to drop spendable earnings below the comparable period of 1967. November was the first month in 1968 which compared unfavorably in this regard with the prior year. What this means, of course, is that inflation is beginning not only to take a bigger chunk out of the pay check directly, but is also having a dampening effect on the average man hours worked.

While the cost of living was hitting new heights, grocery prices were dropping five-tenths of 1 percent. The farmer continues to be one of the big losers in the current inflation spiral. But it is becoming increasingly difficult to find anyone who is winning.

JUST WHERE do you think the California Division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy held a recent convention? In San Diego, at the U.S. Grant Hotel, that's where!

When the top-drawer residents of a Long Island suburb elected to put on a historical pageant, a book publisher who always believed he could have been a great dramatic star had he taken the proper courses in college, nominated himself for the role of General Lafayette. Another member of his golf foursome received the nod for George Washington. Unfortunately, on the opening night of the pageant, both Lafayette and Washington drank far too freely at dinner and at the height of their big scene together, General Lafayette suddenly passed out—landing in a heap on the recumbent form of the almost equally incapacitated Father of Our Country.

The audience roared with joy—but when the outraged director managed to disentangle the two great warriors, front-row seat-holders could hear General Lafayette grumble, "If I'd known that so-and-so Lafayette got THIS drunk, I never would have accepted the part."

George S. Kaufman once offered as his own epitaph, "Over my dead body." It was Kaufman, too, who ticked off an over-expensive cat hospital as "a gyp joint where they charged four bucks a weak purr."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

One of the greatest handicaps of young children is a speech disorder. It is estimated that more than two million children have speech defects which interfere with their scholastic progress and often hamper their social relationships.

Adult achievement is frequently impaired by speech defects traced to childhood. Many of these might have been overcome with good speech therapy.

A childhood pattern of speaking is at first charming and sometimes encouraged long after it should have stopped. When the young child comes face to face with his classmates in the first grade, speech may account for his acceptance or rejection by them. An attitude of "this too shall pass" towards an early speech defect tends to dismiss it and entail more difficulty in treatment.

There are a number of physical reasons for impediments in speech. Cleft palate, malformations of the jaw and some neurological disorders may be responsible for speech defects. A small band of tissue that ties down the tongue may impede normal progress of speech. In addition to the physical disorders, there are many psychological factors that reflect the tensions within the home, rivalry between children and other emotional pressures that can cause poor speech.

The science of speech therapy is a highly developed one. Most large university centers, medical schools and hospitals have hearing and speech departments where the diagnosis and treatment of speech defects are handled by experts.

When a speech defect is suspected, even at the very earliest age, it should be remedied by these experts in order to avoid any lasting alteration in the physical or emotional growth of the child.

A medallion worn around the neck, the wrist or the ankle may often be of life-saving importance if on it is engraved any serious medical problem a person may have. The American Medical Association has created such a metal tag on which can be indicated diabetes, epilepsy, heart disease, drug allergy, and any other known physical condition which should be brought to the immediate attention of a doctor

Probably More Inflation

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

If you will pardon the intrusion of a curbside economist, I don't think anyone knows how to stop inflation in an economy such as ours. Not when the government itself is so hungry for money.

Suppose you increase taxes, as has been done. A goods-hungry people shrug it off and up their installment buying. The interest rates on borrowed money naturally rise with the volume of purchases on the "never-never," but so what? It is the monthly payments, not the long-term totals, that count with most buyers. The union leaders are trusted to negotiate a little more by way of compensating money to add to the monthly paycheck, and when the bargaining sessions are over — usually helped along by a government that doesn't really worry about inflating wages — the installment buyer is feeling no pain. He has his raise. He also has his new color TV, his washing machine, his second car, and probably an outboard motorboat.

Since there are no forced savings in a peacetime democracy, goods-hungry people can get around tax increases by drawing on their savings accounts, or by putting less money aside for a rainy day. Meanwhile, they can beat the inflation by putting the money they do save into condominium apartments, various forms of real estate (including the new real estate equity stocks), or the common stocks of growth companies. Where there's a will, there's a way — and only dopes are compelled to cut down on their standards of living in a surtax era.

The General Motors Corporation and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company are smarter than President Lyndon Johnson and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler — yea, even smarter than Congressman Wilbur Mills — when it comes to figuring out the future. Knowing that the American consumer has been trained to be an insatiable animal, they respond to surtax "austerity" by outlining huge capital goods expenditures. As all economists know, whether they be Marxian, Keynesian or Adam Smithian, when the capital goods cycle is up, or at least not going down, the tendency is toward full employment. This is just what the doctor ordered to keep the inflation going.

A curbside economist, relying on horse sense, must figure that a tax increase can be neutral in its effects on the price level. For what the State takes away from the private citizen will be spent anyway, on the State's purchases. True enough, this may relieve the State from the necessity of creating new money. But if the private citizen continues his accustomed buying habits by increasing his reliance on installment purchases, he merely replaces the State as the originator of credit in the form of accounts receivable.

Sometimes the learned bank letters reveal the truth amidst a spate of financial gobbledegook. Referring to the surtax, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, in its 1968 year-end review, remarks that "some of the restraining effect of the tax on private spending may be offset. The surtax is highly progressive, falling mainly on those in the upper-middle and higher-income brackets. These are the ones most likely to maintain their standards of living after imposition of the tax, especially in view of the high rate of saving early in 1968 and the possibly temporary feature of the tax (scheduled to be removed in mid-1969)."

The Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis continues in deadpan fashion to say that, despite the ten per cent surtax and the slow-down in the increase of the national money stock from a 7 per cent to a 3.5 per cent annual rate, "total demand for goods and services has remained excessive." Well, as we were saying at the outset of this column, a goods-hungry people gets what it wants as long as there is elasticity in the system.

The writers of bank letters recognize reality when it is in the past tense. But they deal in fantasy when it comes to forecasting future trends. The St. Louis Federal Reserve economist expects the government's "stabilization actions" to take hold in 1969. Wanna bet? This column says that the capital goods investments of Big Industry will keep employment up, employed people will go on spending money, and the inflation will continue. The only hope in sight is that the Vietnam War may become less costly.

Robert Redford

By BOB THOMAS

AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) When Robert Redford proposed a movie about skiing, he was told by a film executive: "Two hours of all that snow? I'll never sell. The audience would get too cold."

As Hollywood has learned, Redford is a strong-willed actor, and he wouldn't be dissuaded. He starts production in Switzerland this week on "Downhill," which he says will be the first authentic view of the skiing life.

Redford told about the inception of the project.

"I've always wanted to make a picture about the life of a professional athlete. I don't think there ever has been one that really depicted the mean, hard life that most athletes must lead. 'The Hustler' came close, but then, pool isn't really very athletic, is it?"

The actor naturally turned to skiing for a film subject. He owns a home in the ski country of Utah, recently bought a ski lodge in Colorado, and spends as much of his nonworking, non-sleeping time as possible on skis. He turned down an offer to star in "Ski Bum" because "it wasn't about skiing." Instead he decided to develop his own story.

But in trying to sell his project to Paramount, he ran into snowflakes, such as the one from the bigwig who worried about frigid audiences. Redford persisted. But then he fell out with Paramount by walking out on a Western, "Blue." He claimed he gave the studio plenty of notice; Paramount claimed he didn't and filed suit for a few hundred thousand.

"Blue" turned out to be one of the larger bombs of 1968, and Redford figures that was the turning point for him. His judgment was vindicated, and corporation head Charles Bluhorn sent for him.

"Why make all those pictures about the poor economy of England or problems in Czechoslovakia?" the actor argued. "Why not make some pictures about what's going on in America? That's what audiences want to see."

Redford's pitch succeeded, and Bluhorn gave him the go-ahead on "Downhill"—for a price. The price was a million dollars, which is pretty small change for a major movie nowadays.

"We had to pinch pennies," said Redford. "I couldn't send a big camera crew over to the Olympics at Grenoble. I got a half-dozen of my friends together—ski bums and photographers—told them the situation and they agreed to help me out."

Redford and his illicit band spent two weeks dodging gendarmes and Olympic officials while they unofficially photographed the action on the French Alps. He himself posed as a reporter for Sports Illustrated, and one of his photographers, Dick Fairbanks, wore a fake nose as a disguise. They came home with the footage Redford needed.

Today is Tuesday, Jan. 7, the seventh day of 1969. There are 258 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1953, President Harry S. Truman announced that the United States had developed a hydrogen bomb.

On this date—

In 1789, the first U.S. presidential election was held.

In 1890, the 13th American president, Millard Fillmore, was born in a log cabin in Cayuga County, N.Y.

In 1927, radio telephone service opened between New York and London.

In 1938, Joseph P. Kennedy was appointed United States ambassador to Great Britain.

In 1952, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower announced that he was a Republican and said he would answer what he termed "a clear-cut call to political duty."

In 1965, Indonesia President Sukarno said his nation was quitting the United Nations.

Ten years ago . . . The United States recognized the new revolutionary government of Fidel Castro in Cuba.

Five years ago . . . The second session of the 98th Congress opened, with tax reduction and civil rights the top legislative projects.

One year ago . . . History's fourth human heart transplant took place at Stanford, Calif.

during an emergency.

It is suggested that people with such problems carry special identification cards bearing the suggestions of one's own doctor and his address, should an emergency arise.

Both the medallion and the health identification card are excellent precautions if medical first aid ever becomes necessary.

An important warning is being issued to parents of young children. A number of cases have been reported of youngsters ensnared by habit-forming drugs that can be purchased over the drugstore counter without prescription. Cough medicines, such as terpin hydrate with doctene, can be bought through unscrupulous dealers without responsibility to these children. Four ounces of this cough medicine contains four grains of codeine in forty-two percent alcohol. This is a warning that must be respected.

Instruction in the safety of guns is imperative before any hunting should be allowed.

Good Cow Milker Hard To Locate

ESCONDIDO, Calif. (AP) — A good cow milker in San Diego County is hard to find, now that dairies are offering rent-free homes, up to $700 a month and even a free gallon of milk a day.

Since it takes years to train a top milker, the San Diego County Dairy Herd Improvement Association is worried. "Just as the cow becomes accustomed to one milker, he leaves for another dairy," a spokesman said.

Milkers are in great demand. So the dairies are setting up a school, three nights a week at Escondido high school. So far 17 men have signed up.

Soviets Launch Craft On Journey To Venus

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched an unmanned space ship Sunday on a 155-million mile journey that it hopes will end in mid-May with a soft landing on Venus.

The official news agency Tass said the Venus 5 vehicle was photographed 90,000 miles from earth by an observatory near Alma Ata, Kazakhstan. It said the photographs were sent to Moscow and "the quality of the pictures is good."

Two University of Illinois researchers have discovered a link between a woman's figure and a man's likes and dislikes. All that research instead of just asking.

They find that men who like long-legged girls seldom drink. You could spill a lot of booze mixing drinking and miniskirt watching.

Why would a girl with long legs be a curb on drinking? Especially at a crowded bar.

It has been found that men who like short-legged girls generally like social activities. Probably because social activities can make a short-legged girl take more steps.

The research was done by showing 95 Illinois freshmen slides of nude women. The research is considered inconclusive, which is to be expected from an overcrowded classroom.

It developed that the size of women's bosoms affected the freshmen's likes and dislikes, too. Now you know why they are called freshmen.

The researchers say they went into this to check accuracy of folklore. Or folklore.

Not Insurance

Social security has been called many things during its three decades of existence, but a legitimate form of insurance it is not.

Some of its more eager proponents in years past have tried to paint social security as insurance, but the present occupant of the White House apparently has decided the ruse has gone far enough.

At any rate, the administration has sent to the House Ways and Means Committee a proposal to put a limit on social security payments to federal workers who are covered by civil service retirement benefits. Many of these employees once worked in private industry, where they paid into the social security fund and thus are eligible to participate in its retirement benefits.

Social security planners are having difficulties balancing their books as more and more contributors reach retirement age and begin taking instead of giving. This has been made all the more critical by the addition of medicare, and the heavy drain it imposes on the Treasury.

So someone decided that as the purpose of social security really wasn't to insure all who contributed to it, but to provide some level of subsistence to the retired or incapacitated who otherwise would have no income, then it is a short step to the premise that those who already have a retirement income really do not need social security benefits — or at least not all to which they otherwise would be entitled.

Probably the next step by those who would deprive civil servants of their "insurance" will be to look at private retirement plans to determine how much beneficiaries of those programs might be able to forgo under the social security arrangement.

This is clear: No member of Congress who supports the White House's Indian-giver scheme can refer to this as an insurance plan ever again.

Prices At New High

A boom accompanied the end of 1968 — an inflationary boom, that is. Estimates are that the year recorded an inflation spiral of about 4.7 percent.

This is the largest increase in the cost of living in 17 years, since the 5.9 percent increase during the Korean war year of 1951. A drop in the work week in November combined with the cost of living increase to drop spendable earnings below the comparable period of 1967. November was the first month in 1968 which compared unfavorably in this regard with the prior year. What this means, of course, is that inflation is beginning not only to take a bigger chunk out of the pay check directly, but is also having a dampening effect on the average man hours worked.

While the cost of living was hitting new heights, grocery prices were dropping five-tenths of 1 percent. The farmer continues to be one of the big losers in the current inflation spiral. But it is becoming increasingly difficult to find anyone who is winning.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The war-spawned inflation that couldn't be knocked out by the Johnson administration in 1968 will continue to dominate the fever chart of the U.S. economy in 1969.

Even when a sizable fraction of 1968 had yet to unfold, Chairman Arthur M. Okun of the Council of Economic Advisers sized up the coming year as a rough one.

"If there was ever to be a year of bliss for the American economy," he said in a looking-ahead speech, "it will not be 1969."

The new year Okun sketched for his listeners—and his guesses tally with those of many economists and businessmen of both parties—features a slowing down of economic activity to a less inflationary pace in the first half, followed by a picking up from midyear on.

Planned for and induced by the Johnson administration as an inflation buster, the deceleration is intended to be a slowing, not a halting, of the rate of expansion.

The 1968 growth of the Gross National Product—market value of all of the nation's goods and services—from $790 billion to an estimated $860 billion represented an increase of 5 per cent in "real" growth, far too hot by the administration's yardstick.

Okun, for instance, has pointed to "anything between 1 and 3 per cent" as the target for the period up to mid-1969.

With prices rising at the fastest rate since the Korean war, the administration went to the mat twice with big business in 1968 to spike price hikes it felt would worsen the situation. Bethlehem Steel and Chrysler Corp yielded to White House muscle and rolled back part of their new price schedules.

But these were relatively minor skirmishes. The administration pinned its hopes in the inflation battle mainly on the 10 per cent income tax surcharge that began pinching the flow of money into consumers' pocket-books last July.

While President-elect Nixon said during the campaign the surtax would be scrapped if he got in, the betting is better than even that he will ask to have it extended beyond its scheduled expiration date, June 30, though perhaps at a rate less than 10 per cent.

When the surtax was slapped on, many observers expected dramatic and speedy dampening of consumer demand, followed by production cutbacks and a rise in the number of jobless.

But it has proved a study in slow motion, some critics writing it off as a flop.

"Instead of being red hot," the newsletter of the National League of Insured Savings Associations said, "the economy has become white hot, and the prophets can't point to anything now that might slow it down."

But most business spokesmen haven't given up on the surtax. They see emerging in early 1969, months behind schedule, the cooling off they have been watching for since fall.

They look for smaller wage gains for labor, tighter profit margins for business and some rising of unemployment, currently at a 15-year low.

While few forecasters predict an end to the Vietnam war in 1969, the belief that it will become quieter and less costly is widespread.

Labor may not react docilely to leaner wage gains if they materialize. Even with first-year wage increases averaging above 7 per cent in major contracts negotiated in 1968, the year had more than the usual number of man-days lost to strikes.

Housing starts are expected to top 1.6 million units in 1969, up 8 to 10 per cent from 1968, when sales didn't seem to suffer from mortgage rates averaging above 7 per cent.

Willingness of borrowers to be saddled with loans at high interest was cited repeatedly by economists as evidence that "inflation psychology" was getting into the public's blood, leading to decisions to "buy now" in the belief things can only get worse in the future.

This kind of thinking has "gone pretty far" and overcoming it will be one of the most formidable challenges the new administration faces, said Guy E. Noyes, senior vice president of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co.

Dear Abby: Hubby Needs A Psychiatrist

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband has not come near me, even for a kiss, since my hysterectomy two years ago. My scar is nice and neat, not repulsive or ugly.

My husband is the type who goes around our property cutting down all the trees that are imperfectly formed. We are in our early forties. Please print your answer. He may profit by it.

"CUTDOWN": You are not a tree, and there is no reason to regard as "imperfect" a woman who bears a scar. Your husband has a far more serious "imperfection." His doesn't show, but it may require a professional to get to the root of it.

DEAR ABBY: If anybody writes in and asks you if she should marry a widower who was married to the same woman for 40 years, tell her not to.

I've been married for three months to a man who is wonderful when he's awake, but he keeps calling me "Myrtle" in his sleep. Maybe he can't help it, but I was widowed twice, and I never once called my present husband Alfred or LeRoy in MY sleep, and if I can be careful, so can he.

NOT MYRTLE

DEAR NOT: A 40-year-old habit is not easily broken. Just remember that your husband isn't responsible for what he calls you in his sleep. (At least you know who Myrtle was.)

DEAR ABBY: My father is having an affair with a girl who is not much older than I am. (I am 24.) She went to work in his office soon after her divorce. I cannot describe how heart sick I am. I have always adored my father, and now I can't even look at him.

I don't believe my father would divorce Mother to marry this woman. She has small children and knowing my father, he's not about to raise a family at his age. Maybe, too, the young woman doesn't want an "old" man to take care of, but she is playing for all he's worth.

Should I tell my mother? I have the feeling it might help her to talk to someone.

Should I go to my father's boss? He's a person I could talk to, and I'm sure he wouldn't put up with this situation in his office for one minute.

What advice can you give me, Abby?

HEARTSICK DAUGHTER

DEAR HEARTSICK: Don't talk to your mother. And don't talk to your father's boss. (He might fire them both, and at his age, your father may not find it easy to get another job.)

Try to reason with him. He's probably infatuated with this girl and flattered by her attentions. You may not be able to shake him out of the daze, but it's worth a try.

DEAR ABBY: Re. the handling of embarrassing, personal questions: I had an experience along those lines which might interest your readers:

One evening at our club, a woman came up to me and said, "My, your hair looks pretty." Then she grinned and added, "...and the people at our table have a bet on about whether you're wearing a wig or not. Are you?"

I grinned right back at her and replied, "What a coincidence! The people at OUR table also have a bet on about whether you're wearing FALSIES or not, but nobody had the nerve to ask you."

Needless to say, that took care of her.

Inflation To Dominate Economic Charts During 1969

Miss Sharma L. Callihan Wed To Jay H. Hunter

MRS. JAY H. HUNTER

Miss Sharma L. Callihan and Jay H. Hunter were united in marriage 7:30 p.m. Dec. 14 in the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church. The Rev. G. H. Niswender performed the altar adorned with red poinsettias and candelabra, and a beautifully decorated Christmas tree. The windows were decorated with sprays of red poinsettias and greenery. White satin bows marked the pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Callihan, 202 Logan St., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Hunter, Route 2, Amanda.

Ralph Amey, vocalist, sang "Because," "I Believe," "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Lucille Kirkwood, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected for her wedding a gown of ivory satin and Alencon lace, designed in the skimmer A-line silhouette featuring a high stand-up neckline. The yoked bodice topped with the Alencon lace featured long, bridal point sleeves. She wore a matching chapel length mantilla of English net edged in the same lace as the bodice. Her bouquet was of small white pompon mums and greenery.

Mrs. Carolyn Harper served her sister as matron of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of ruby red velvet fashioned in a silhouette design featuring a high neckline and long sleeves with ecru Venise lace. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a white fur muff decorated with holly.

Maid of honor was Miss Jill Jenkins and the bridesmaids were Miss Arlene Baldwin, Miss Elsie Shupe, Miss Anita Harper, Miss Ann Miller and Miss Susan Moss. They were dressed identically to the matron of honor.

Miss Bobbi Lynn Callihan, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Her floor length gown was of ruby red velvet trimmed in ivory lace. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a basket of holly. Flower girl, Ronda Lea Harper, niece of the bride, was dressed like the junior bridesmaid. She carried a white basket of rose petals.

Best man was Emmer Baldwin, and ushers were Bobby Callihan, Tom Bartholomew, Allen Harper, Aaron Harper, Ramon Shupe and Gary Young.

A reception in the Service Center of the Church immediately followed the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a four tiered cake topped with the traditional bride and groom figurines encircled by moonlit snow. Holly was placed around the cake and punch bowl. Lighted tapers flanked the cake to complete the decorations.

Hostesses were Miss Debbie Callihan, Miss Melinda Callihan, Miss Linda Hill and Miss Carolyn Royster.

For a wedding trip to Florida, the bride wore a dress of black crepe with a bodice of white knit and gray accessories.

The new Mrs. Hunter is a graduate of Circleville High School and is employed as a switchboard operator by John W. Eshelman and Sons.

Mr. Hunter graduated from Amanda High School and is presently engaged in farming. Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Lancaster, Portsmouth and Livonia, Mich. The couple now reside on Route 6, Lancaster.

Pythian Sisters Prepare For Installation

Pythian Sisters of Majors Temple 516 met Thursday in the K of P Hall with 19 members present. Geneva Woodward, most excellent chief, presided at the business meeting.

Mrs. Eleanor Fisher, chairman of the auditing committee, reported for the committee. Assisting her were Clarissa Talbut and Mary E. Radcliffe. The Installing Officers Commission was read by Garnet Reichelderfer, installing officer. Installation will be held jointly with the Knights, Monday, in the K of P Hall at 8 p.m.

Committees appointed to serve during installation are: reception — Clarissa Talbut, Elma Rains, Frances Evans; registration, Katherine L. Mead, Carolyn Young; food, Agnes Nau, Ruth Griest, Clara Lathouse, Lloyd and Eleanor Fisher.

There will be a practice session for installation in the K of P Hall 7 p.m. Thursday. All officers and staff members are asked to attend. A social hour followed the business meeting. Refreshments were served by Geneva Woodward.

New Forms And Colors Flash In Pans And Pots

By ELEANOR ROSS

Avocado, Flame, Chocolate Pineapple, Melon, Biscuit, Mushroom — these are among the mouth-watering names given to the colors of the new lines of pots, pans and other cooking equipment.

More Features Add to these, exciting new shapes and miraculous finishes and "plain-Jane" pans find themselves as outdated as kerosene lamps.

A kitchen shower these days is likely to be a rainbow of color and a delight for the bride-to-be. Glamor takes over in the galley, as cookware becomes nicer to look at and easier to care for. Today's bride no longer treasures her mother's well-seasoned skillet. The modern kitchen is bright with a pegboard hung with a color coordinated set — much too pretty to hide in a kitchen cupboard.

A complete set might include 8" and 10" skillets, 1 and 2-quart saucepans, a 3-quart covered casserole, and a big 6-quart pot — all with necessary lids. To this set might be added double boilers, lasagna or roasting pans, coffee pot and teapot, as well as casseroles in various sizes.

Other Places Color isn't found only on the exterior. One line includes pots that are chocolate brown outside with interiors of flame or avocado. Another firm puts bright flowers or gay geometrics on its pots and pans.

Low Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Weather bureau summary for Ohio:

Cold air and strong winds continued to spread over the state during the night as the cold front which entered western Ohio at midday Monday moved on to the Allegheny Mountains of Pennsylvania.

As dawn approached temperatures had dropped into the teens in all but the extreme southeast corner, with an 11 degree reading at Dayton the lowest in the state.

Clearing skies will allow temperatures to drop even lower tonight over most sections especially in the west and south where winds will be diminishing at the same time.

Mostly sunny skies early Wednesday morning will be short lived. A new storm is developing over the northern Rockies. It will be preceded by widespread cloudiness and an increasing area of snow and rain. However, it will also send Ohio temperatures rising Wednesday as the winds become southerly ahead of the storm center, with the highest readings of the year expected over most of the state.

FORECASTS OHIO — Colder tonight with diminishing winds and clearing all but northeast. Snow flurries continuing northeast through tonight with new snow accumulations of 3 inches or more likely near Lake Erie east of Cleveland by Wednesday morning. Partly sunny Wednesday morning but mostly cloudy in the afternoon with light snow possibly mixed with rain extreme west by evening. Low tonight 5-14 west, 9-17 east.

NORTHWEST OHIO — Snow flurries ending this evening followed by clearing later tonight with diminishing winds. Cold again tonight, low 5-12. Wednesday increasing cloudiness and warmer with occasional light snow likely late afternoon, high in the lower to middle 30s.

CENTRAL, SOUTH EAST, EAST CENTRAL OHIO — Snow flurries ending this evening followed by clearing later tonight with diminishing winds. Low tonight 10-17. Considerable sunshine Wednesday morning followed by increasing cloudiness in the afternoon, high 34-41.

Miss Sharma L. Callihan Wed To Jay H. Hunter

MRS. JAY H. HUNTER

Miss Sharma L. Callihan and Jay H. Hunter were united in marriage 7:30 p.m. Dec. 14 in the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church. The Rev. G. H. Niswender performed the double ring ceremony before the altar adorned with red poinsettias and candelabra, and a beautifully decorated Christmas tree. The windows were decorated with sprays of red poinsettias and greenery. White satin bows marked the pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Callihan, 202 Logan St., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Hunter, Route 2, Amanda.

Ralph Amey, vocalist, sang "Because," "I Believe," "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Lucille Kirkwood, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected for her wedding a gown of ivory satin and Alencon lace, designed in the skimmer A-line silhouette featuring a high stand-up neckline. The yoked bodice topped with the Alencon lace featured long, bridal point sleeves. She wore a matching chapel length mantilla of English net edged in the same lace as the bodice. Her bouquet was of small white pompon mums and greenery.

Mrs. Carolyn Harper served her sister as matron of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of ruby red velvet fashioned in a silhouette design featuring a high neckline and long sleeves with ecru Venice lace. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a white fur muff decorated with holly.

Maid of honor was Miss Jill Jenkins and the bridesmaids were Miss Arlene Baldwin, Miss Elsie Shupe, Miss Anita Harper, Miss Ann Miller and Miss Susan Moss. They were dressed identically to the matron of honor.

Miss Bobbi Linn Callihan, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Her floor length gown was of ruby red velvet trimmed in ivory lace. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a basket of holly. Flower girl, Ronda Leila Harper, niece of the bride, was dressed like the junior bridesmaid. She carried a white basket of rose petals.

Best man was Emmer Baldwin, and ushers were Bobby Callihan, Tom Bartholomew, Allen Harper, Aaron Harper, Ramon Shupe and Gary Young.

A reception in the Service Center of the Church immediately followed the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a four tiered cake topped with the traditional bride and groom figurines encircled by moonlit snow. Holly was placed around the cake and punch bowl. Lighted tapers flanked the cake to complete the decorations.

Hostesses were Miss Debbie Callihan, Miss Melinda Callihan, Miss Linda Hill and Miss Carolyn Royster.

For a wedding trip to Florida, the bride wore a dress of black crepe with a bodice of white knit and gray accessories.

The new Mrs. Hunter is a graduate of Circleville High School and is employed as a switchboard operator by John W. Eshelman and Sons.

Mr. Hunter graduated from Amanda High School and is presently engaged in farming.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Lancaster, Portsmouth and Livonia, Mich. The couple now reside on Route 6, Lancaster.

Soft, Fluid Clothes Mark Sarmi Spring Fashion Look

NEW YORK (AP) — "I like women to look like women and look pretty," Sarmi said Monday as he introduced his spring and resort collection at the American Designer Showing.

Sarmi said that in his designs, "You don't see navels. You don't see bosoms. You don't see behinds."

He called the ultrafeminine appearance "the look I love—because it reminds me of my youth."

For daytime, Sarmi showed soft, fluid clothes, belted or sashed. There were none of the floral patterns seen in other collections, but there were lots of strips, particularly horizontal ones.

For evening, there was a shirtwaist in "the thinnest or—can you find it?" horizontally banded in satin ribbon and trimmed and sashed in black satin.

Most of Sarmi's dresses had long sleeves—sheer, but long. "I'm so fed up to see bare skin on the street," he said. "Bare skin is good only for bedrooms."

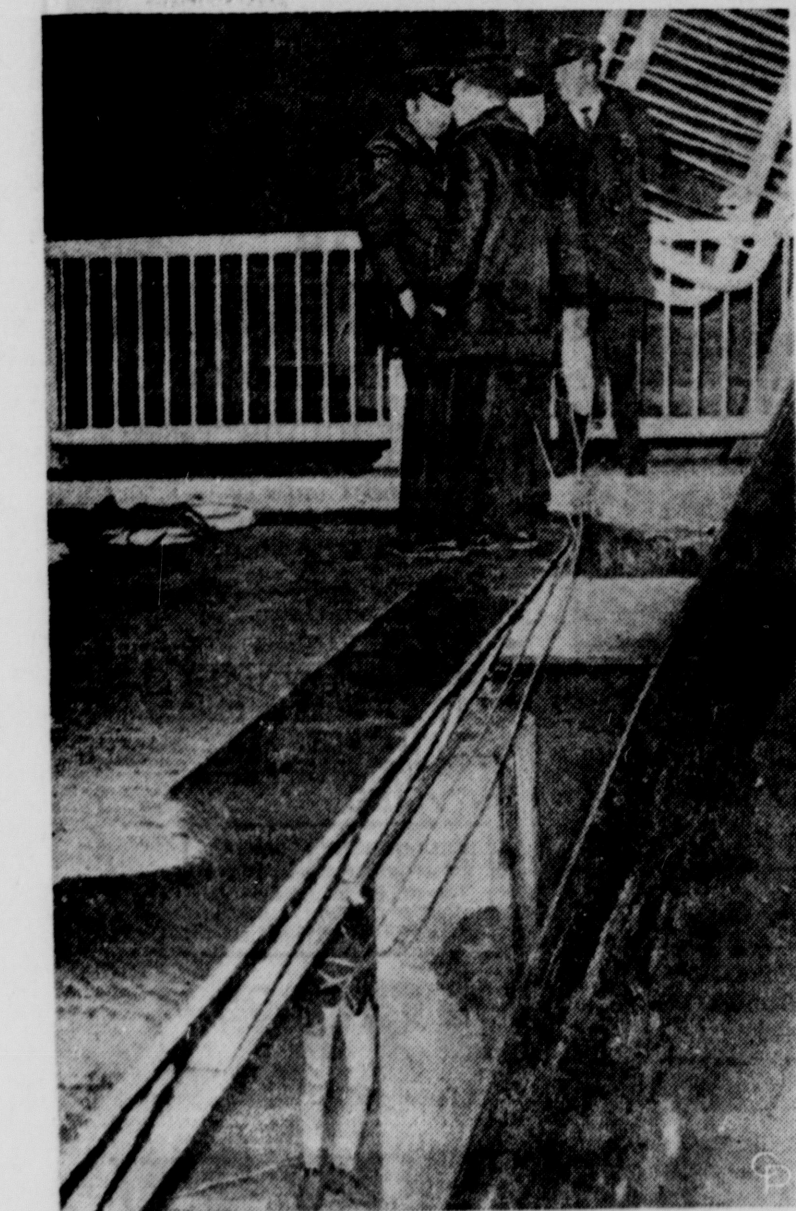

Despite his disclaimer, Sarmi did present a black dress with matching stole, trimmed in pom-poms, bare backed and plunging to the waist. "For once," he said, "skin. The exception proves the rule."

Long evening dresses, many of them shirtwaist style, swirled and swirled with yards of chiffon—yellow, pink, blue, white and orange. Necks were scooped or high, softly cut.

Wallace's Party Eyes Canton Races

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The American Independent Party, which ran George C. Wallace for president in November, is considering running candidates for mayor and city council in Canton, according to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown. Brown said the AIP picked up the necessary petitions from the Stark County Board of Elections.

If the AIP runs candidates in Canton or any other city which holds partisan elections, Brown said, three sets of ballots will have to be printed for primary elections.

Pajamas—strictly for at-home wear—usually appear under a long skirt. The exception was an outfit Sarmi called his "powder puff"—a maribou bolero over black crepe, satin sashed pants, with the midriff left bare.

Pauline Trigere, who showed earlier Monday afternoon, agreed that pants were strictly for at home. "I don't think that women... should take the pants away from the men," she said.

Miss Trigere had no qualms, however, about stealing fabrics from the men. Several dresses were made of plaid and tweed fabrics she selected from men's suiting charts and she showed ascots made of men's tie silk and matching actual men's ties she also designs.

The pants Trigere showed for at home—and they opened her collection—bared tiny triangles of skin just above the waist, between pants and cutaway tops, fastened only by a button or two.

There was more skin showing in a black jersey bolero and skirt combination which bared a large section of midriff and which was tied together only by a huge satin tulip running from shoulder to floor.

Expect Seamans To Emphasize Space Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon defense team will have a civilian Air Force boss whose background suggests new emphasis on military space work.

He is Dr. Robert C. Seamans Sr., a former top official of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and a professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who was presented Monday along with two other men tabbed by Secretary of Defense-designate Melvin R. Laird as civilian secretaries of the Army and Navy.

Stanley R. Resor was a surprise reappointment to the Army job. Former Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee, a one-time Marine, was picked to replace Paul R. Ignatius as secretary of the Navy.

Seamans, who succeeds Harold Brown, made it clear from the outset he thinks space activity should be a major part of the Air Force.

A total of 2,867 recordings were processed in the county recorder's office during 1968, according to the annual report submitted by Hazel M. Yeatis, recorder.

The processed recordings consisted of 1,346 deeds; 947 real estate mortgages involving $13,493,381.37; and 574 miscellaneous recordings.

Also during 1968, there were 677 real estate mortgages cancelled in the recorder's office involving monies in the amount of $10,587,030.91.

The yearly report also listed the filing and processing of 2,240 financing statements. The 1968 report did not include the total fees collected by the recorder's office for the year.

Drama Group Holds Tryouts

Tryouts will be held this evening for Roundtown Players upcoming production, "Splendor in the Grass", a romantic drama set in the 1920s. Anyone interested in reading for a role in the play is urged to attend the 8 p.m. meeting in the basement of St. Philip's Parish House.

Cast for the drama includes nine women and 10 men, according to Carolyn Young, director.

Good Samaritan Fund Grows

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A fund for the widow and children of Raymond J. Sansoucie, an automobile worker killed while chasing a purse snatcher, has passed the $32,000 mark.

The St. Louis Grand Jury Association reported Monday individual contributions ranged from two quarters from a 10-year-old to several $500 donations.

Sansoucie, 30, pursued a youthful purse snatcher he saw attack an elderly widow New Year's Eve, and he was shot fatally. He and his wife Ruth, 24, had four children with another one on the way.

Teacher Strike Hits SF State

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Troubled San Francisco State College was gripped by a new problem today—a formal teachers strike—and acting President S. I. Hayakawa questioned whether he could keep the school open.

Another state college, at San Jose, faced a similar teachers strike Wednesday.

There was no major violence but police arrested five demonstrators on charges of intimidating nonstrikers and using obscenities.

The teachers support student strikers who have boycotted classes at the 18,000-student campus since Nov. 6. They also seek higher pay, more voice in college policy-making and official recognition.

Hayakawa was visibly shaken by the strike called Monday by the teachers union, representing 350 of the college's 1,100 faculty members. Until then, he had appeared optimistic since he became acting president Nov. 26.

The AFT set up picket lines in front of the college and at certain on-campus points Monday. But it wasn't until late in the day the union received strike sanction from the San Francisco Labor Council.

The action hit other campus employees. The cafeteria closed at 2 p. m. when food handlers left their jobs. And some 150 other nonteaching union workers faced the prospect of crossing picket lines to reach their jobs.

At San Jose, 50 miles south, the college chapter of AFT received strike sanction Monday night from the Central Labor Council of Santa Clara County.

The union planned a strike Wednesday supporting its undisclosed demands and backing San Francisco State AFT members. The San Jose AFT claims 275 members of a faculty of more than 1,200.

"A militant minority of the faculty has hitchhiked onto the militant students' violence-ridden strike for a vicious power grab," Hayakawa told newsmen. Later he met with college administrators planning strategy to counter the strike.

"I have some ideas," he said.

Change In Senate Rules Hinges On Ruling By HHH

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bipartisan sponsors of the biennial assault on the Senate filibuster rule have modified their proposal while awaiting a key ruling by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

At the same time, New York Republican Jacob K. Javits and Michigan's Democrat Philip A. Hart claimed increased support for the effort that has been made unsuccessfully eight times in the past 16 years—every time a new Congress convenes.

Senate rules now require a two-thirds vote of those present to shut off debate.

Hart and Javits planned originally to try to change the rule so that a simple majority could limit debate. They now say they would be willing to settle for a three-fifths vote.

If Humphrey rules that the Senate is not a continuing body, Hart and Javits will then ask the Senate to adopt the same rules under which it operated in the 90th Congress—with one exception.

They will ask that Rule 22, which requires the two-thirds vote, be altered to read a three-fifths vote instead. Should they be successful, a simple majority vote on the proposed rule change, after some debate, would be taken.

The two senators have been writing and talking to colleagues, concentrating on the 15 newcomers.

If the vice president decides that the Senate is a continuing body and its rules are not subject to change every two years, a two-thirds majority would be required to overturn his action.

Javits said he believed he can count on most of the 42 republicans in the Senate, and he said he is counting on Hart to come up with the remaining votes among Democrats.

The core of opposition to amending the rule on unlimited debate has traditionally come from Southern Senators with help from some northern and western colleagues.

Is your water half-soft, half-hard?

Many families on the tank-exchange plan really have half-soft, half-hard water.

This may be true in your home.

Many tank exchange water softeners are connected only to hot water outlets. So, while the hot water tap delivers the benefits of soft water, the cold taps are completely hard.

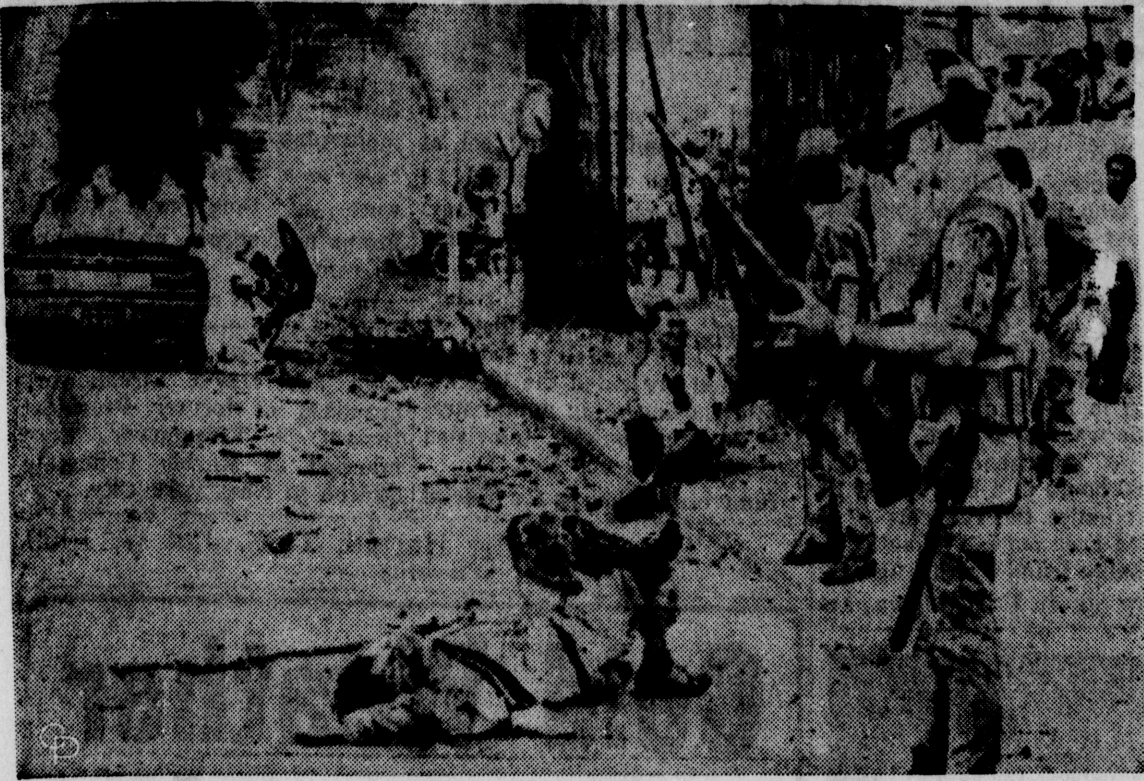

This means stains under the cold water taps, stains in the tubs and toilets. It means that when you take a bath, you are bathing in half-soft, half-hard water.

Worst of all, it means that when you and your daughters shampoo, your hair is stringy, dull and hard to manage.

Soft, Fluid Clothes Mark Sarmi Spring Fashion Look

NEW YORK (AP) — "I like women to look like women and look pretty," Sarmi said Monday as he introduced his spring and resort collection at the American Designer Showing.

Sarmi said that in his designs, "You don't see navels. You don't see bosoms. You don't see behinds."

He called the ultrafeminine appearance "the look I love—because it reminds me of my youth."

For daytime, Sarmi showed soft, fluid clothes, belted or sashed. There were none of the floral patterns seen in other collections, but there were lots of stripes, particularly horizontal ones.

For evening, there was a shirtwaist in "the thinnest or—'an'za you can find," horizontally banded in satin ribbon and trimmed and sashed in black satin.

Most of Sarmi's dresses had long sleeves—sheer, but long. "I'm so fed up to see bare skin on the street," he said. "Bare skin is good only for bedrooms."

Despite his disclaimer, Sarmi did present a black dress with matching stole, trimmed in pom poms, bare backed and plunging to the waist. "For once," he said, "skin. The exception proves the rule."

Long evening dresses, many of them shirtwaist style, swirled and swirled with yards of chiffon—yellow, pink, blue, white and orange. Necks were scooped or high, softly cut.

Pajamas—strictly for at-home wear—usually appear under a long skirt. The exception was an outfit Sarmi called his "powder puff"—a maribou bolero over black crepe, satin sashed pants, with the midriff left bare.

Pauline Trigere, who showed earlier Monday afternoon, agreed that pants were strictly for at home. "I don't think that women... should take the pants away from the men," she said.

Miss Trigere had no qualms, however, about stealing fabrics from the men. Several dresses were made of plaid and tweed fabrics she selected from men's suiting charts and she showed ascots made of men's tie silk and matching actual men's ties she also designs.

The pants Trigere showed for at home—and they opened her collection—bared tiny triangles of skin just above the waist, between pants and cutaway tops, fastened only by a button or two.

There was more skin showing in a black jersey bolero and skirt combination which bared a large section of midriff and which was tied together only by a huge satin tulip running from shoulder to floor.

Hayakawa said he might call in some 50 teachers with "advanced degrees of all kinds" who have volunteered to instruct classes. He said he can't negotiate with the AFT because it is "not a legal entity and must work with the trustees."

Approximately 1,000 jeering teachers, striking students and supporters from other schools picketed the foggy campus Monday, hurling insults at teachers, and students who moved to classrooms.

Expect Seamans To Emphasize Space Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon defense team will have a civilian Air Force boss whose background suggests new emphasis on military space work.

He is Dr. Robert C. Seamans Sr., a former top official of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and a professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who was presented Monday along with two other men tabbed by Secretary of Defense-designate Melvin R. Laird as civilian secretaries of the Army and Navy.

Stanley R. Resor was a surprise reappointment to the Army job. Former Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee, a one-time Marine, was picked to replace Paul R. Ignatius as secretary of the Navy.

Seamans, who succeeds Harold Brown, made it clear from the outset he thinks space activity should be a major part of the Air Force.

Moon Trip, Pueblo Release Topped December News

EDITOR'S NOTE—Following is the final of 12 articles on The Year That Was—a review of the events that made 1968 a unique news year.

By JOY STILLEY
Associated Press Writer
On Christmas Eve in the year 1968 there was a strange object in the skies and three brave men were making a new kind of history by undertaking the most daring and risky space adventure ever.

They were Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders—the crew of Apollo 8—orbiting the moon as the highlight of a fantastic six-day journey.

The astronauts left the earth's sphere of gravitational influence to become the first humans ever to enter the moon's gravity field. After 10 lunar orbits they headed in their spacecraft back earthward to a safe on-target splashdown in the Pacific Dec. 27 and to a heroes' welcome.

There was more good news for the United States in December. The 82 surviving crew members of the Pueblo were back in their own country for Christmas after being released by the North Koreans who had seized them and their intelligence ship off the North Korean Coast exactly 10 months before.

To obtain freedom for the prisoners, the U.S. government signed a document—which it immediately termed false—"solemn apology" to the North Koreans, who kept the vessel.

Also holding holiday reunions with their families were 11 American soldiers freed after five months as Cambodian prisoners. They were captured last July when their river boat allegedly strayed into Cambodian waters from South Vietnam.

Earlier in the month, as the season of good will toward men approached, expanded Vietnam peace talks were getting off to a slow start in Paris after Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam arrived, leading a delegation pledged to peace without surrender.

Pre-negotiation diplomatic maneuvers hit an immediate snag in a high-level hassle over the shape of the conference table. The Communists insisted it should be round to indicate equal status of the four delegations—the United States, Saigon, Hanoi and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Saigon and Washington, on the other hand, saw it as a two-sided confrontation between the allies and the Communists, and their proposal for the talks' setting was a two-sided arrangement to avoid recognizing the NLF as a separate entity.

Hong Kong flu, a new variant of the influenza virus, made its way across the Pacific and by mid-December the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta reported the nation was at the beginning of an epidemic, with the peak expected about mid-January.

Its effects were widespread. Many schools and colleges were closed well in advance of the Christmas holidays and absenteeism in business and industry was high. Among its victims were actress Tallulah Bankhead, who died at 65 of pneumonia that developed after an attack of the Hong Kong flu.

A 20-year-old Emory University coed and daughter of a wealthy Florida land developer was the victim of a bizarre kidnapping in Atlanta. Barbara Jane Mackle was taken from a motel and was imprisoned for more than 80 hours in a box buried 18 inches under the red clay of a wooded area outside Atlanta before being found by FBI agents.

None of his choices for official rested in connection with the kidnapping and his bond set at $500,000, the same amount as the ransom paid by Miss Mackle's parents, but mostly recovered.

In an unprecedented introduction of his new Cabinet en masse, President-elect Richard M. Nixon presented the 12 leaders of the incoming administration to a nationwide television and radio audience Dec. 11.

Later in the month Nixon acquired a new member of his private family when his daughter Julie and David Eisenhower, grandson of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, were married at Marble Collegiate Church in New York City.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — National Educational Television launched, with a marked lack of fireworks, experimental venture that might be called a part-time network.

For the next six months, under substantial grants from the Ford Foundation and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting plus reduced rates by the telephone company, NET will broadcast simultaneously to some 130 stations for two hours on five nights a week.

NET, with its Ford Foundation grant, has been sending programs on these stations on a once-a-week basis since last season.

The expanded project started Monday night with a discussion program taped in Hong Kong involving four journalists analyzing the situation in Southeast Asia. Discussion shows are common on television these days and more to the point was the second hour, a film showing starving Biafrans, caught in a power struggle.

The program was raggedly edited and indifferently filmed. It included interviews with leaders of Biafra explaining their war for self-determination, thin long interviews with Nigerian leaders propounding their views.

But the heart of the program was the material showing small, children so thin that every bone showed; and resigned and frightened older people.

Representatives of church groups explained with frustration their inability to provide enough food for refugees and dislocated families—one skinny meal a day was the limit.

The first drama of the week comes along Thursday night—9-10 EST—with a production of "The Tin Whistle" taped by a Net affiliate in Pittsburgh.

Educational stations are high-minded, worthy and concerned, but it does seem that a little showmanship in programming would help.

Commercial network viewers have a legitimate gripe about the timing of television's only two prime-time news shows. CBS has long turned over a Tuesday night hour to its news division, and this season the 10-11 p.m. period consists of a magazine-format show called "60 Minutes" every other week.

Now NBC has come along with its new monthly magazine-format show called "First Tuesday" and dropped it into a time period in direct conflict. NBC, however, is a two-hour show, pre-empting its feature movie rerun.

Viewers who catch the NBC premiere tonight will find an interview with Dr. Philip Blai-burg, the survivor of an early heart transplant, and another with Rita Hayworth. CBS at about the same time will have

Otto Skorzeny, an SS colonel under Hitler, telling how he engineered the escape of Benito Mussolini from Italian protective custody in 1943. There will also be an interview with Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew.

The New Teaching

JESUS DELIVERS PEOPLE FROM IGNORANCE, FROM EVIL SPIRITS, FROM SICKNESS

Scripture—Mark 1:21-45.

By R. H. RAMSEY
THE DIFFERENCE between the writing style of Mark and that of the other Gospel writers is easily seen. Matthew's is clear, simple chronology; Luke's clinical attention to detail adds to its beauty and tenderness; John's is simple, intense and repetitious; Mark's is quick, energetic, nervous, as if he were in a hurry to record his marvelous tidings. Though evidently not a trained writer, his dramatic style and attention to detail appeal to many readers.

The events in today's lesson took place in Capernaum, a thriving city at the northern end of the Sea of Galilee. It was the hub of a network of roads reaching to Tyre, Sidon and Damascus. Sepphoris (the capital of Galilee) and Jerusalem were within easy reach of Perea and Iturara. The great caravan road from the Far East to the Mediterranean went through Capernaum, making it a bustling, busy place.

At Capernaum today there are extensive ruins of a synagogue, but not the one in our lesson, though it may have been built on the ruins of the synagogue of Jesus' day.

After calling the first four of

also knew that He was Jesus of Nazareth and the Holy One of God.

Thus at the beginning of His ministry, Christ was brought face to face with a supernatural, evil power. It was important that He demonstrate His power to command such evil beings at His own will. So Jesus ordered the "demon" to be quiet and leave the man. With much crying out, the unclean spirit left the suffering man forever.

News of this healing miracle spread rapidly, and the people of the region marveled.

Jesus and the four disciples left the synagogue and went to the home of Simon's mother-in-law, where they had been invited for dinner. When they arrived, Jesus found her sick in bed with a fever. Jesus took her by the hand, urging her to get out of bed. Immediately, miraculously, the fever left her and she was completely well. So, well, in fact, that she again began bustling about her household duties and serving the dinner.

It was as impossible to hide the healing of Simon's mother-in-law as it was to hide the healing of the demon-possessed

GOLDEN TEXT

"No man also seweth a piece of new cloth on an old garment; else the new piece that filled it up taketh away from the old, and the rent is made worse."—Mark 2:21.

His disciples, Andrew and Simon (Peter), James and John, Jesus went with them to Capernaum. As was His habit, when the Sabbath day came He went to the synagogue. Customarily, Sabbath day services consisted of prayer, reading of the Scripture, and teaching by a rabbi or some other person who was present and qualified.

Our Lord spoke with authority on the subjects of the soul of man, sin, salvation, the revelation and character of God, judgment, resurrection and eternal life, for He had been with God since before the beginning. Those who heard him were astonished at His knowledge, for it went far beyond any teachings they had had previously from any of the scribes.

In the synagogue that day was a man possessed, we are told, by a demon. How frequently this man had attended the synagogue we do not know, but on this particular day he had an unexpected experience which changed his life. After listening to Jesus teaching, the demon within him cried out. It knew that Christ was his enemy, and that he was Christ's enemy; it man. By sunset many persons had gathered at the door of Simon's mother-in-law's home. They brought with them their sick and their demon-possessed, and Jesus healed them all.

The next morning Jesus rose before dawn and went to pray. Soon the disciples came to tell Him that many people were waiting to hear Him teach and to be healed. Instead of staying in Capernaum, Jesus and the disciples left for other towns in Galilee, preaching and healing as they went.

At one point a leper approached Christ and begged to be made clean. As soon as Christ had spoken to him and touched him, the leprosy disappeared. Jesus told the man to say nothing to any person about his healing, but to go and show the priest and be cleansed according to the law of Moses. Whether he was ritually cleansed, we are not told, but the former leper told all he knew about his miraculous healing by Jesus of Nazareth. From that time on, wherever He went, Christ attracted large crowds of people. Soon there was no place He could go to be alone.

Soils Survey For Cities Available From SCS Office

Canfield became the first village in Ohio to include soils as part of its building code, according to Donald V. Archer, Pickaway District Conservationist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service.

The village has just signed an agreement with the Mahoning Soil and Water Conservation District outlining the criteria for their cooperative efforts in planned development.

The basis for the new subdivision regulations on soil problems was the recently completed Soil Survey of Mahoning County. This survey was conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service. The interim report was published with the help of the Mahoning County Commissioners.

Archer said that the Soil Survey information is available to landowners, industry, realtors, developers, builders and public officials. It will provide them a wealth of information useful in water disposal, erosion control, drainage and building site suitability.

The new subdivision regulations for Canfield were drawn up by a Youngstown-based engineering firm from the soils information provided by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service. They cover wall foundation design, street patterns and road construction details.

The agreement was signed by the Canfield Mayor, represented the Mahoning Soil and planning board; and Dean Beardsley, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors, represented the Mahoning Soil and Water Conservation District. We commend both parties for this achievement.

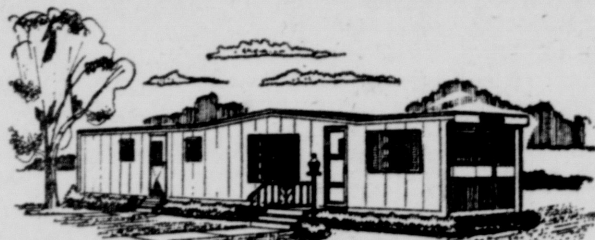

"This is a significant agreement," Archer said. The U.S. Soil Conservation Service can provide villages and cities with erosion control and water management assistance, but it needs to be coordinated with the officials. Archer said other cities are in the process of including erosion control in their ordinances.

"This new movement by city officials is very encouraging," Archer said. It should accelerate our efforts to curb urban erosion in Ohio; and consequently, do much to reduce silt pollution.

2 Lima Residents Burned To Death

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Two men perished early today in a fire at a home where they lived.

Authorities said the body of Harold Sultzbach, 63, was found on a sofa where the fire apparently started, and that the body of Haskell England, 68, was found in the kitchen of their basement apartment in the home.

Allen County Coroner William E. Noble said the victims died of asphyxiation.

Moon Trip, Pueblo Release Topped December News

EDITOR'S NOTE—Following is the final of 12 articles on The Year That Was—a review of the events that made 1968 a unique news year.

By JOY STILLEY
Associated Press Writer
On Christmas Eve in the year 1968 there was a strange object in the skies and three brave men were making a new kind of history by undertaking the most daring and risky space adventure ever.

They were Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders—the crew of Apollo 8—orbiting the moon as the highlight of a fantastic six-day journey. The astronauts left the earth's sphere of gravitational influence to become the first humans ever to enter the moon's gravity field. After 10 lunar orbits they headed in their spacecraft back earthward to a safe on-target splashdown in the Pacific Dec. 27 and to a heroes' welcome. There was more good news for the United States in December. The 82 surviving crew members of the Pueblo were back in their own country for Christmas after being released by the North Koreans who had seized them and their intelligence ship off the North Korean Coast exactly 10 months before. To obtain freedom for the prisoners, the U.S. government signed a document—which it immediately termed false—of "solemn apology" to the North Koreans, who kept the vessel.

Also holding holiday reunions with their families were 11 American soldiers freed after five months as Cambodian prisoners. They were captured last July when their river boat allegedly strayed into Cambodian waters from South Vietnam. Earlier in the month, as the season of good will toward men approached, expanded Vietnam peace talks were getting off to a slow start in Paris after Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam arrived, leading a delegation pledged to peace without surrender.

Prerequisite diplomatic maneuvers hit an immediate snag in a high-level hassle over the shape of the conference table. The Communists insisted it should be round to indicate equal status of the four delegations—the United States, Saigon, Hanoi and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front. Saigon and Washington, on the other hand, saw it as a two-sided confrontation between the allies and the Communists, and their proposal for the talks' setting was a two-sided arrangement to avoid recognizing the NLF as a separate entity. Hong Kong flu, a new variant of the influenza virus, made its way across the Pacific and by mid-December the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta reported the nation was at the beginning of an epidemic, with the peak expected about mid-January.

Its effects were widespread. Many schools and colleges were closed well in advance of the Christmas holidays and absenteeism in business and industry was high. Among its victims were actress Tallulah Bankhead, who died at 65 of pneumonia that developed after an attack of the Hong Kong flu. A 20-year-old Emory University coed and daughter of a wealthy Florida land developer was the victim of a bizarre kidnapping in Atlanta. Barbara Jane Mackle was taken from a motel and was imprisoned for more than 80 hours in a box buried 18 inches under the red clay of a wooded area outside Atlanta before being found by FBI agents. Gary Steven Krist, 23, was arrested in connection with the kidnapping and his bond set at $500,000, the same amount as the ransom paid by Miss Mackle's parents, but mostly recovered.

In an unprecedented introduction of his new Cabinet en masse, President-elect Richard M. Nixon presented the 12 leaders of the incoming administration to a nationwide television and radio audience Dec. 11. None of his choices for official family. all men considered moderates in political thought, came as a great surprise. There were no Democrats in the group, no Negroes, no Jews and no women. Later in the month Nixon acquired a new member of his private family when his daughter Julie and David Eisenhower, grandson of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, were married at Marble Collegiate Church in New York City.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—National Educational Television launched, with a marked lack of fireworks, experimental venture that might be called a part-time network.

For the next six months, under substantial grants from the Ford Foundation and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting plus reduced rates by the telephone company, NET will broadcast simultaneously to some 130 stations for two hours on five nights a week.

NET, with its Ford Foundation grant, has been sending programs on these stations on a once-a-week basis since last season.

The expanded project started Monday night with a discussion program taped in Hong Kong involving four journalists analyzing the situation in Southeast Asia. Discussion shows are common on television these days and more to the point was the second hour, a film showing starving Biafrans, caught in a power struggle.

The program was raggedly edited and indifferently filmed. It included interviews with leaders of Biafra explaining their war for self-determination, thin interviews with Nigerian leaders propounding their views.

But the heart of the program was the material showing small, children so thin that every bone showed; and resigned and frightened older people.

Representatives of church groups explained with frustration their inability to provide enough food for refugees and dislocated families—one skimpy meal a day was the limit.

The first drama of the week comes along Thursday night—9-10 EST—with a production of "The Tin Whistle" taped by a Net affiliate in Pittsburgh.

Educational stations are high-minded, worthy and concerned, but it does seem that a little showmanship in programming would help.

Commercial network viewers have a legitimate gripe about the timing of television's only two prime-time news shows. CBS has long turned over a Tuesday night hour to its news division, and this season the 10-11 p.m. period consists of a magazine-format show called "60 Minutes" every other week.

Now NBC has come along with its new monthly magazine-format show called "First Tuesday" and dropped it into a time period in direct conflict. NBC, however, is a two-hour show, pre-empting its feature movie rerun.

Viewers who catch the NBC premiere tonight will find an interview with Dr. Philip Blalberg, the survivor of an early heart transplant, and another with Rita Hayworth. CBS at about the same time will have

Otto Skorzeny, an SS colonel under Hitler, telling how he engineered the escape of Benito Mussolini from Italian protective custody in 1943. There will also be an interview with Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew.

The New Teaching

JESUS DELIVERS PEOPLE FROM IGNORANCE, FROM EVIL SPIRITS, FROM SICKNESS

Scripture—Mark 1:21-45.

By R. H. RAMSEY
THE DIFFERENCE between the writing style of Mark and that of the other Gospel writers is easily seen. Matthew's is clear, simple chronology; Luke's clinical attention to detail adds to its beauty and tenderness; John's is simple, intense and repetitious; Mark's is quick, energetic, nervous, as if he were in a hurry to record his marvelous tidings. Though evidently not a trained writer, his dramatic style and attention to detail appeal to many readers.

The events in today's lesson took place in Capernaum, a thriving city at the northern end of the Sea of Galilee. It was the hub of a network of roads reaching to Tyre, Sidon and Damascus. Sepphoris (the capital of Galilee) and Jerusalem were within easy reach of Perea and Iturara. The great caravan road from the Far East to the Mediterranean went through Capernaum, making it a bustling, busy place.

At Capernaum today there are extensive ruins of a synagogue, but not the one in our lesson, though it may have been built on the ruins of the synagogue of Jesus' day.

After calling the first four of

also knew that He was Jesus of Nazareth and the Holy One of God.

Thus at the beginning of His ministry Christ was brought face to face with a supernatural, evil power. It was important that He demonstrate His power to command such evil beings at His own will. So Jesus ordered the "demon" to be quiet and leave the man. With much crying out, the unclean spirit left the suffering man forever.

News of this healing miracle spread rapidly, and the people of the region marveled.

Jesus and the four disciples left the synagogue and went to the home of Simon's mother-in-law, where they had been invited for dinner. When they arrived, Jesus found her sick in bed with a fever. Jesus took her by the hand, urging her to get out of bed. Immediately, miraculously, the fever left her and she was completely well. So well, in fact, that she again began bustling about her household duties and serving the dinner.

It was as impossible to hide the healing of Simon's mother-in-law as it was to hide the healing of the demon-possessed

GOLDEN TEXT
"No man also seweth a piece of new cloth on an old garment; else the new piece that filled it up taketh away from the old, and the rent is made worse."—Mark 2:21.

His disciples, Andrew and Simon (Peter), James and John, Jesus went with them to Capernaum. As was His habit, when the Sabbath day came He went to the synagogue. Customarily, Sabbath day services consisted of prayer, reading of the Scripture, and teaching by a rabbi or some other person who was present and qualified.

Our Lord spoke with authority on the subjects of the soul of man, sin, salvation, the revelation and character of God, judgment, resurrection and eternal life, for He had been with God since before the beginning. Those who heard him were astonished at His knowledge, for it went far beyond any teachings they had had previously from any of the scribes.

In the synagogue that day was a man possessed, we are told, by a demon. How frequently this man had attended the synagogue we do not know, but on this particular day he had an unexpected experience which changed his life. After listening to Jesus teaching, the demon within him cried out. It knew that Christ was his enemy, and that he was Christ's enemy; it man. By sunset many persons had gathered at the door of Simon's mother-in-law's home. They brought with them their sick and their demon-possessed, and Jesus healed them all. The next morning Jesus rose before dawn and went to pray. Soon the disciples came to tell Him that many people were waiting to hear Him teach and to be healed. Instead of staying in Capernaum, Jesus and the disciples left for other towns in Galilee, preaching and healing as they went.

At one point a leper approached Christ and begged to be made clean. As soon as Christ had spoken to him and touched him, the leprosy disappeared. Jesus told the man to say nothing to any person about his healing, but to go and show the priest and be cleansed according to the law of Moses. Whether he was ritually cleansed, we are not told, but the former leper told all he knew about his miraculous healing by Jesus of Nazareth. From that time on, wherever He went, Christ attracted large crowds of people. Soon there was no place He could go to be alone.

Papal Message Said Not Anti-Jewish

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Dr. Nahum Goldmann, Paris-based president of the World Jewish Congress, said today Pope Paul VI told him the papal message of sympathy to the President of Lebanon did not mean the Pope was anti-Jewish in the Israeli-Arab conflict.

Goldmann said he and the pontiff discussed the Middle East situation in a special audience at the Vatican this morning.

Soils Survey For Cities Available From SCS Office

Canfield became the first village in Ohio to include soils as part of its building code, according to Donald V. Archer, Pickaway District Conservationist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service.

The village has just signed an agreement with the Mahoning Soil and Water Conservation District outlining the criteria for their cooperative efforts in planned development.

The basis for the new subdivision regulations on soil problems was the recently completed Soil Survey of Mahoning County. This survey was conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service. The interim report was published with the help of the Mahoning County Commissioners.

Archer said that the Soil Survey information is available to landowners, industry, realtors, developers, builders and public officials. It will provide them a wealth of information useful in water disposal, erosion control, drainage and building site suitability.

The new subdivision regulations for Canfield were drawn up by a Youngstown-based engineering firm from the soils information provided by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service. They cover wall foundation design, street patterns and road construction details.

The agreement was signed by the Canfield Mayor, represented the Mahoning Soil and planning board; and Dean Beardsley, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors, represented the Mahoning Soil and Water Conservation District. We commend both parties for this achievement.

"This is a significant agreement," Archer said. The U.S. Soil Conservation Service can provide villages and cities with erosion control and water management assistance, but it needs to be coordinated with the officials. Archer said other cities are in the process of including erosion control in their ordinances.

"This new movement by city officials is very encouraging," Archer said. It should accelerate our efforts to curb urban erosion in Ohio; and consequently, do much to reduce silt pollution.

Circleville, Ohio

Team Doctor Patched Feud Between Allen And Reeves

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It will hardly appear in the journal of the American Medical Association, but a physician helped heal the bizarre rift between the president and the coach of the Los Angeles Rams.

Dan Reeves, the president and owner of 51 per cent of the National Football League's stock, rehired George Allen, the winning coach he had fired the day after Christmas. Reeves said there was "personality conflict" between him and Allen.

Reeves explained at a news conference a few hours after Monday's rehiring announcement that he began to have second thoughts about his dismissal action of a week ago.

Dr. Jules Rasinski Jr. called him to say Allen had told him that he wanted to return as coach.

"I began to think about it," Reeves told newsmen. "If a man is this dedicated, I thought I should reconsider."

The team doctor called again the next day and the owner told him that he would be glad to meet with Allen.

They met for three hours on New Year's Day at the Reeves home and again last Saturday.

On Monday, Reeves announced that Allen's contract, which has two years left to run, remains the same with the same salary—reportedly $40,000 a year.

Firing of Allen shocked players and fans. Several veteran stars of the team threatened to retire or ask to be traded if the coach didn't return.

Reeves denied that the threat of the small rebellion by players or mounting pressure from fans and news media influenced his decision.

"The reasons I had were valid and sufficient in my mind," Reeves said of the firing. He refused to elaborate. But later he said there was a difference of philosophy between himself and Allen.

Eckert Retains Interim Authority

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. William D. Eckert established his interim authority as commissioner of baseball Monday at meeting of the game's Executive Council.

Eckert, who submitted his forced resignation Dec. 6 with four years remaining on a seven-year contract, said "I will have full responsibility and authority until a new commissioner is elected."

Expand Bank Stock

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The executive committee of the Cleveland Trust Co., Ohio's largest bank, has recommended a $500,000—share increase in the bank's authorized stock and the issuance of the additional shares as a one-for-four non-taxable stock dividend.

Jayhawks Rip Iowa State; Win No. 997

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
It's 13 down and three to go for Kansas' streaking Jayhawks in their bid for a college basketball milestone.

Sparked by 6-foot-6 sophomore Dave Robisch's 22 points, the fifth-ranked Jayhawks drubbed Iowa State 94-61 Monday night for their 13th victory in 14 games this season.

Kansas, driving to become the first 1,000-game winner in history, has reeled off 12 victories in a row for an all-time total of 997.

While the Jayhawks, 2-0 in the Big Eight Conference, ran their winning string to the longest for a Kansas team since 1957, seventh-ranked Kentucky riddled Mississippi State 91-72, No. 9 Villanova shaded Niagara 73-68 and No. 10 New Mexico remained unbeaten with an 85-69 romp over Arizona State.

Notre Dame, ranked 16th in this week's Associated Press Top Twenty, zipped past Fordham 84-65 but No. 14 Louisville barely got by St. Louis 81-80 in a double overtime struggle.

Kansas, shooting 63 per cent from the floor, rolled to a 51-29 halftime lead over the visiting Cyclones at Lawrence, Kan., and coasted the rest of the way. Dave Nash, filling in for injured pivotman Roger Brown, complemented Robisch up front with 18 points and Olympic star Jo Jo

White added 12.
Dan Issel popped in 26 points, one more than teammate Mike Casey, in leading Kentucky to its second Southeastern Conference victory in as many starts and an 8-2 over-all mark. The Wildcats led from the opening minute and shot 56 per cent on the way to the road conquest.

Villanova's rugged zone defense limited Niagara hotshot Calvin Murphy to 26 points—12 under his season average—as the Wildcats ran their record to 9-1. Sophomore Howard Porter, with 23 points, and senior Johnny Jones, with 21, paced the Villanova attack on the losers' court.

Charlie Criss scored 25 points and Jimmy Collins, 24, triggering New Mexico State's 12th victory. The Aggies, one of four unbeaten major teams, bolted to a 50-34 halftime margin and led by as many as 25 points in the second half.

Notre Dame, 8-2, ran off 10 straight points late in the second half—seven of them by 6-foot-7 reserve Collis Jones—and drew away from scrappy Fordham at South Bend, Ind. Bob Arzenz topped the Irish scorers with 28 points.

St. Louis, which went up against visiting Louisville with a 2-8 mark, stunned the Cardinals by racing to a 44-30 halftime lead and stayed ahead until Mike Grosso put in a rebound with 17 seconds to play, sending the game into overtime knotted at 73.

The first overtime ended in a 77-77 deadlock and the Billikens jumped ahead 80-77 in the second extra period before Butch Beard hit a field goal for Louisville and teammate Jerry King followed with a rebound basket to win it with 1:10 remaining. Grosso, held to two points in the first half, led the Louisville comeback with 22 after intermission.

Gene Smith tipped in a rebound in the final minute, capping a 20-point effort and giving Southern Illinois a 62-61 nod over Kentucky Wesleyan, the nation's No. 1 small college power. The one-point loss was the second in three nights for Wesleyan, which had won its first eight.

In games involving Ohio colleges, Central State beat Cleveland State 44-35, Thomas More bombarded Steubenville 116-80, Edinboro State defeated Kenyon 110-99 and California State, Pa., whipped Rio Grande 100-97. Central State had a fight on its hands to preserve its sixth-place ranking among the nation's small colleges. The Raiders trailed until midway through the second half when Robert Moore scored six straight points for a 31-27 lead. Otherwise, Moore, the team's leading scorer, was contained, tallying only nine points.

Thomas Moore, behind John Wenderfer's 40-point performance, easily handled Steubenville. The Rebels came back from halftime with a 51-41 lead and continually increased their lead.

Frank Smith scored 52 points in leading Edinboro State past Kenyon. The Lords' John Rinka and John Dunlop combined for 74 points in the losing effort.

Namath Arrives In Florida, Sparks Feud With Morrall

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Joe Namath wasn't in town 24 hours before he started the Super Bowl's first feud.

Namath, the super quarterback of the American Football League champion New York

Jets, said on a television program that there were at least four better passers in the AFL than Baltimore's Earl Morrall.

Namath listed Oakland's Darley LaMonica, John Hadl of the San Diego Chargers, Bob Griese of the Miami Dolphins, and himself as better than Morrall, the National Football League's Player-of-the-year.

And, to add insult to injury, Namath said his backup quarterback with the Jets, Babe Parilli, could have played with Baltimore this year, and might have done a better job than Morrall. He said Parilli throws better.

Namath said he didn't give a hang if his observations stimulated Baltimore in Sunday's Super Bowl battle with the Jets for the professional football championship of the world.

Coach Don Shula of the Colts heard about Namath's comments and replied, "I don't know how Namath can rap Earl, the NFL's Player-of-the-year. He had a great completion percentage, led the league in touchdown passes, threw for huge chunks of yardage. He didn't throw those dinky flat passes, either."

"He (Namath) can say what he heck he wants, but I don't know how he can rap a guy like Earl who has accomplished what Morrall has accomplished for us this year. We're happy with Earl."

Shula wasn't deterred from praising Namath as one of the top quarterbacks in the game.

ATTENTION GETTER — That would be Joe Namath, the New York Jets' quarterback, arriving in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where the team will train for its Super Bowl meeting with Baltimore, champs of NFL, on Jan. 12.

Miami Trace Guards Among Top Scorers

Randy Halley Leads South Central Ohio League Point Race

South Central Ohio League leading Miami Trace has two scorers in the top six of the league. They are Larry Ankrom and Chuck Weaver.

Ankrom has scored 74 points in league action, an average of 18.5 points per game, and 136 points in all nine games the Panthers have played.

Weaver has 61 points in the league, an average of 15.2 per game, and 142 overall.

Circleville's Randy Halley is the league's leading point maker.

HALLEY has tossed in 81 points in the four league games for an average of 20.2 points per game. In Circleville's nine games, Halley has scored 139 markers.

Right behind Halley in the scoring race is Steve Bowers, who has 80 in the league and leads in overall scoring with 192 points.

Kim Ewing, Wilmington's 6-foot 5-inch center, has scored 79 points in four league games and 160 points in the 10 games the Hurricane has played.

Mike Moses of Hillsboro has 70 points in four league games and 150 points in all of the Indians' outings.

Of the top six scorers, five are guards. Ewing a center, is the only front court player among the scorers.

League games coming up Friday find Wilmington at Washington C. H. in a battle for second place, Miami Trace at Circleville and Hillsboro at Greenfield.

St. John's Zooms In AP Cage Poll

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
St. John's of New York, second to none as giant-killers of second place teams in The Associated Press major-college basketball poll, advanced from 17th place to eighth in the latest vote today while North Carolina regained the No. 2 position behind powerful UCLA.

The Redmen, winners over North Carolina two weeks ago when the Tar Heels were ranked second, upset Davidson, 75-74 last Saturday night. The result dropped the Wildcats from second to sixth place.

North Carolina, which tumbled to fourth after its setback to St. John's, collected 722 points in the balloting by a national panel of 50 sports writers and broadcasters. UCLA was again a unanimous choice for first place, accumulating the maximum 1,000.

The Bruins lifted their record to 9-0 by defeating St. John's in the New York Holiday Festival final last Monday and by beating Tulane Saturday night.

North Carolina whipped Princeton and Duke for a 9-1 mark. Santa Clara, unbeaten in 12 starts, advanced three places to third and Illinois, 10-0, climbed from eighth to fourth. Santa Clara beat Columbia, Oklahoma City and San Francisco while the Illini tripped Minnesota in its only game.

Kansas held fifth place. Kentucky fell four positions to seventh after splitting two games, including a 69-65 setback by Wisconsin. Villanova remained No. 9 and New Mexico State 11-0, rushed up from 12th to complete the Top Ten. Cincinnati, 10th a week ago, slipped to 19th as a result of its losses to Tulsa and Wichita State.

Northwestern, 9-1 after defeating Michigan State, made the most rapid advance among the teams in the Second Ten. The Wildcats soared from 19th to 12th.

Drake, in 18th place, and Marquette, 20th, are the newly rated teams. They replaced New Mexico, No. 18 last week, and St. Bonaventure, No. 20. New Mexico was beaten by Butler while the Bonnies dropped games to Oklahoma City and Villanova.

The Top 20, with first place votes, season records through

Saturday, Jan. 4 and points for first 15 picks on a 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-etc. basis:

1. UCLA (50)	9-0 1000
2. North Carolina	9-1 722

Team Doctor Patched Feud Between Allen And Reeves

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It will hardly appear in the journal of the American Medical Association, but a physician helped heal the bizarre rift between the president and the coach of the Los Angeles Rams.

Dan Reeves, the president and owner of 51 per cent of the National Football League's stock, rehired George Allen, the winning coach he had fired the day after Christmas. Reeves said there was "personality conflict" between him and Allen.

Reeves explained at a news conference a few hours after Monday's rehiring announcement that he began to have second thoughts about his dismissal action of a week ago.

Dr. Jules Rasinski Jr. called him to say Allen had told him that he wanted to return as coach.

"I began to think about it," Reeves told newsmen. "If a man is this dedicated, I thought I should reconsider."

The team doctor called again the next day and the owner told him that he would be glad to meet with Allen.

They met for three hours on New Year's Day at the Reeves home and again last Saturday.

On Monday, Reeves announced that Allen's contract, which has two years left to run, remains the same with the same salary—reportedly $40,000 a year.

Firing of Allen shocked players and fans. Several veteran stars of the team threatened to retire or ask to be traded if the coach didn't return.

Reeves denied that the threat of the small rebellion by players or mounting pressure from fans and news media influenced his decision.

"The reasons I had were valid and sufficient in my mind," Reeves said of the firing. He refused to elaborate. But later he said there was a difference of philosophy between himself and Allen.

Eckert Retains Interim Authority

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. William D. Eckert established his interim authority as commissioner of baseball Monday at meeting of the game's Executive Council.

Eckert, who submitted his forced resignation Dec. 6 with four years remaining on a seven-year contract, said "I will have full responsibility and authority until a new commissioner is elected."

Expand Bank Stock

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The executive committee of the Cleveland Trust Co., Ohio's largest bank, has recommended a $500,000—share increase in the bank's authorized stock and the issuance of the additional shares as a one-for-four non-taxable stock dividend.

Jayhawks Rip Iowa State; Win No. 997

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
It's 13 down and three to go for Kansas' streaking Jayhawks in their bid for a college basketball milestone.

Sparked by 6-foot-6 sophomore Dave Robisch's 22 points, the fifth-ranked Jayhawks drubbed Iowa State 94-61 Monday night for their 13th victory in 14 games this season.

Kansas, driving to become the first 1,000-game winner in history, has reeled off 12 victories in a row for an all-time total of 997.

While the Jayhawks, 2-0 in the Big Eight Conference, ran their winning string to the longest for a Kansas team since 1957, seventh-ranked Kentucky rattled Mississippi State 91-72, No. 9 Villanova shaded Niagara 73-68 and No. 10 New Mexico remained unbeaten with an 85-69 romp over Arizona State.

Notre Dame, ranked 16th in this week's Associated Press Top Twenty, zipped past Fordham 84-65 but No. 14 Louisville barely got by St. Louis 81-80 in a double overtime struggle.

Kansas, shooting 63 per cent from the floor, rolled to a 51-29 halftime lead over the visiting Cyclones at Lawrence, Kan., and coasted the rest of the way. Dave Nash, filling in for injured pivotman Roger Brown, complemented Robisch up front with 18 points and Olympic star Jo Jo

White added 12. Dan Issel popped in 26 points, one more than teammate Mike Casey, in leading Kentucky to its second Southeastern Conference victory in as many starts and an 8-2 over-all mark. The Wildcats led from the opening minute and shot 56 per cent on the way to the road conquest.

Villanova's rugged zone defense limited Niagara hotshot Calvin Murphy to 26 points—12 under his season average—as the Wildcats ran their record to 9-1. Sophomore Howard Porter, with 23 points, and senior Johnny Jones, with 21, paced the Villanova attack on the losers' court.

Charlie Criss scored 25 points and Jimmy Collins, 24, triggering New Mexico State's 12th victory. The Aggies, one of four unbeaten major teams, bolted to a 50-34 halftime margin and led by as many as 25 points in the second half.

Notre Dame, 8-2, ran off 10 straight points late in the second half—seven of them by 6-foot-7 reserve Collis Jones—and drew away from scrappy Fordham at South Bend, Ind. Bob Arzenz topped the Irish scorers with 28 points.

St. Louis, which went up against visiting Louisville with a 2-8 mark, stunned the Cardinals by racing to a 44-30 halftime lead and stayed ahead until Mike Grosso put in a rebound with 17 seconds to play, sending the game into overtime knotted at 73.

The first overtime ended in a 77-77 deadlock and the Billikens jumped ahead 80-77 in the second extra period before Butch Beard hit a field goal for Louisville and teammate Jerry King followed with a rebound basket to win it with 1:10 remaining. Grosso, held to two points in the first half, led the Louisville comeback with 22 after intermission.

Gene Smith tipped in a rebound in the final minute, capping a 20-point effort and giving Southern Illinois a 62-61 nod over Kentucky Wesleyan, the nation's No. 1 small college power. The one-point loss was the second in three nights for Wesleyan, which had won its first eight.

In games involving Ohio colleges, Central State beat Cleveland State 44-35, Thomas More bombed Steubenville 116-80, Edinboro State defeated Kenyon 110-99 and California State, Pa., whipped Rio Grande 100-97.

Central State had a fight on its hands to preserve its sixth-place ranking among the nation's small colleges. The Ma-rauders trailed until midway through the second half when Robert Moore scored six straight points for a 31-27 lead. Otherwise, Moore, the team's leading scorer, was contained, tallying only nine points.

Thomas Moore, behind John Wenderfer's 40-point performance, easily handled Steubenville. The Rebels came back from halftime with a 51-41 lead and continually increased their lead.

Frank Smith scored 52 points in leading Edinboro State past Kenyon. The Lords' John Rinka and John Dunlop combined for 74 points in the losing effort.

Namath Arrives In Florida, Sparks Feud With Morrall

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Joe Namath wasn't in town 24 hours before he started the Super Bowl's first feud.

Namath, the super quarterback of the American Football League champion New York

Jets, said on a television program that there were at least four better passers in the AFL than Baltimore's Earl Morrall.

Namath listed Oakland's Darle La Monica, John Hadl of the San Diego Chargers, Bob Griese of the Miami Dolphins, and himself as better than Morrall, the National Football League's Player-of-the-year.

And, to add insult to injury, Namath said his backup quarterback with the Jets, Babe Parilli, could have played with Baltimore this year, and might have done a better job than Morrall. He said Parilli throws better.

Namath said he didn't give a hang if his observations stimulated Baltimore in Sunday's Super Bowl battle with the Jets for the professional football championship of the world.

Coach Don Shula of the Colts heard about Namath's comments and replied, "I don't know how Namath can rap Earl, the NFL's Player-of-the-year. He had a great completion percentage, led the league in touchdown passes, threw for huge chunks of yardage. He didn't throw those dinky flat passes, either."

"He (Namath) can say what he heck he wants, but I don't know how he can rap a guy like Earl who has accomplished what Morrall has accomplished for us this year. We're happy with Earl."

Shula wasn't deterred from praising Namath as one of the top quarterbacks in the game.

ATTENTION GETTER — That would be Joe Namath, the New York Jets' quarterback, arriving in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where the team will train for its Super Bowl meeting with Baltimore, champs of NFL, on Jan. 12.

Miami Trace Guards Among Top Scorers

Randy Halley Leads South Central Ohio League Point Race

South Central Ohio League leading Miami Trace has two scorers in the top six of the league. They are Larry Ankrom and Chuck Weaver.

Ankrom has scored 74 points in league action, an average of 18.5 points per game, and 136 points in all nine games the Panthers have played.

Weaver has 61 points in the league, an average of 15.2 per game, and 142 overall.

Circleville's Randy Halley is the league's leading point maker.

... HALLEY has tossed in 81 points in the four league games for an average of 20.2 points per game. In Circleville's nine games, Halley has scored 139 markers.

Right behind Halley in the scoring race is Steve Bowers, who has 80 in the league and leads in overall scoring with 192 points.

Kim Ewing, Wilmington's 6-foot 5-inch center, has scored 79 points in four league games and 160 points in the 10 games the Hurricanes has played.

Mike Moses of Hillsboro has 70 points in four league games and 150 points in all of the Indians' outings.

Of the top six scorers, five are guards. Ewing a center, is the only front court player among the scorers.

League games coming up Friday find Wilmington at Washington C. H. in a battle for second place, Miami Trace at Circleville and Hillsboro at Greenfield.

Royals Top Chicago Bulls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It was supposed to be Bob Boozer's night, but Connie Dierking found a way to throw a monkey wrench into the celebration.

Dierking slammed in two baskets in the final 45 seconds Monday night to give the Cincinnati Royals a 106-104 National Basketball Association victory over Chicago at Omaha, Neb.

A crowd of 8,295 turned out to honor the Bulls' Boozer, a local product, and Bob responded with 25 points—including a free throw with 1:01 left that enabled Chicago to tie the game at 102-102.

But then Dierking started fouling up the festivities.

Boston turned back Seattle 121-97 in the night's only other NBA game.

In the only two American Basketball Association games scheduled, lowly Houston surprised Kentucky 110-105 and Los Angeles stopped Denver 122-114 in overtime.

Don Nelson scored 28 points to guide Boston past Seattle, moving the Celtics to 3 1/2 games of Eastern Division leader Baltimore and two game back of runner-up Philadelphia.

The Celts broke the game wide open late in the first half with a string of seven points that put them ahead 51-40. At halftime Boston was in front 54-47. The Celtics pulled away after intermission 66-53 on a 12-point tear.

Charles A. Hurth Dies In Louisiana

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Funeral services are scheduled here Wednesday for Charles A. Hurth, former president of the Southern Baseball Association, who died Sunday night in Metairie, La. He was 61.

Hurth served as league president until 1960.

Ohio Solons Are Given Assignments

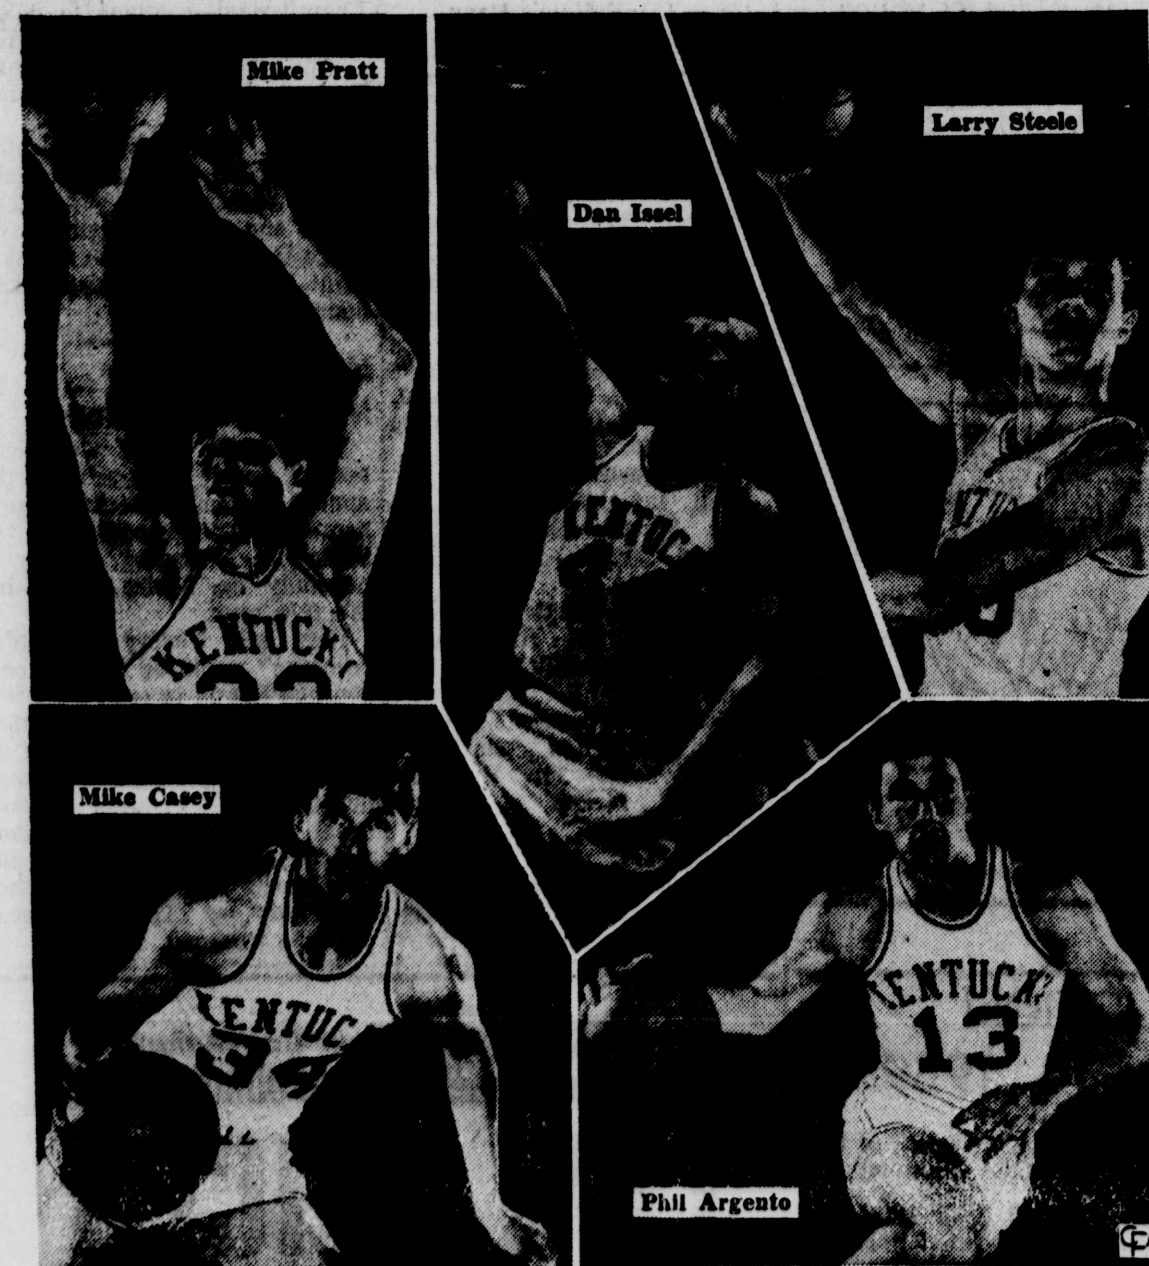

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The standing committees in the Ohio Senate will have the same chairman they had in the 1967 legislative session.

The committees were named Monday by the Senate Committee on Committee's whose members were appointed by Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray R-3 Piqua.

The chairmen: Tennyson Guyer R-2 Findlay, Agriculture and State agencies; Oakley C. Collins, R-18 Ironton, Education, Health and Welfare; Robert T. Turner R-14 Marion, Elections, Commerce and Labor; Robert R. Shaw R-16, Columbus, Finance; Max H. Dennis R-10 Wilmington, Judiciary; Gray, R-3 Piqua, Rules; Robert E. Stockdale R-31 Kent, Urban and Highway Affairs; Michael J. Maloney R-7 Cincinnati, Ways and Means.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess R-4 Bowling Green named chairmen of four standing committees Monday. Kurfess earlier named chairmen of the other House standing committees.

Named Monday were: Howard A. Knight R-13 Rising Sun, Commerce and Labor; James Thorpe R-90 Alliance, Local Government and Urban Affairs; Lloyd George Kerns R-16 Raymond and David D. Albritton R-85 Dayton, Interstate Cooperation Committee.

RUPP'S BOYS TRYING FOR 800—Leading the cast for the Kentucky cagers are these boys of Adolph Rupp, the nation's winningest basketball coach. Rupp now has 794 victories in his long career, thus needing six more wins to hit the 800 mark. His teams have lost only 172 games. The Wildcats are 7-2 this season. The leading scorer is Dan Issel.

St. John's Zooms In AP Cage Poll

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
St. John's of New York, second to none as giant-killers of second place teams in The Associated Press major-college basketball poll, advanced from 17th place to eighth in the latest vote today while North Carolina regained the No. 2 position behind powerful UCLA.

The Redmen, winners over North Carolina two weeks ago when the Tar Heels were ranked second, upset Davidson, 75-74 last Saturday night. The result dropped the Wildcats from second to sixth place.

North Carolina, which tumbled to fourth after its setback to St. John's, collected 722 points in the balloting by a national panel of 50 sports writers and broadcasters. UCLA was again a unanimous choice for first place, accumulating the maximum 1,000.

The Bruins lifted their record to 9-0 by defeating St. John's in the New York Holiday Festival final last Monday and by beating Tulane Saturday night.

North Carolina whipped Princeton and Duke for a 9-1 mark. Santa Clara, unbeaten in 12 starts, advanced three places to third and Illinois, 10-0, climbed from eighth to fourth. Santa Clara beat Columbia, Oklahoma City and San Francisco while the Illini tripped Minnesota in its only game.

Kansas held fifth place. Kentucky fell four positions to seventh after splitting two games, including a 69-65 setback by Wisconsin. Villanova remained No. 9 and New Mexico State 11-0, rushed up from 12th to complete the Top Ten. Cincinnati, 10th a week ago, slipped to 19th as a result of its losses to Tulsa and Wichita State.

Northwestern, 9-1 after defeating Michigan State, made the most rapid advance among the teams in the Second Ten. The Wildcats soared from 19th to 12th.

Drake, in 18th place, and Marquette, 20th, are the newly rated teams. They replaced New Mexico, No. 18 last week, and St. Bonaventure, No. 20. New Mexico was beaten by Butler while the Bonnies dropped games to Oklahoma City and Villanova.

The Top 20, with first place votes, season records through

Saturday, Jan. 4 and points for first 15 picks on a 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-etc. basis:

1. UCLA (50)	9-0	1000

SOME SAFETY TIPS FOR ICE FISHING ...

DON'T

CARRY A SMALL PLANK
WITH YOU. IF YOU FALL
THROUGH THE ICE YOU'LL HAVE SOMETHING TO HANG ONTO.

SUNGLASSES MUST BE WORN TO PROTECT YOUR EYES.

WHEN YOU ARE THROUGH FISHING PLACE SOME TWIGS OR BRANCHES IN
THE ICE HOLE. THIS WILL PREVENT A MISHAP.

"From the great Atlantic Ocean to the wide Pacific shores" — these words from that old familiar, "Wabash Cannonball" song are ever so fitting for our people this week.

Monday Dec. 23, at approximately 6:15 a.m., my good friends, David and Marabel Drummond and two daughters Connie and Sandee, pulled out of their driveway and were off on an 11-day tour of Florida.

They traveled through Tallahassee, the capitol, saw the magnificent Suwannee River were entranced by the water show at Weeki Wachee and the sponge fleet at Tarpon Springs. Drove along the Gulf of Mexico and admired the lovely beaches, also the sunken gardens at St. Petersburg plus the ship Bounty.

At Sarasota they toured the Ringling Museum and the Ringling home which is so gorgeously and lavishly decorated as to be almost unbelievable. A showplace, definitely! The circus troupe winters in Venice, Fla.

They enjoyed the winter home of Edison and his museum at Fort Myers and the sea shell factory, too. (She sells sea shells by the sea shore, etc.)

On their way all the way down to Key West — crossing the famous seven mile bridge. Leaving there, the travelers came up to Cleveiston and the Sugar House of the U.S. Sugar Corp. and watched sugar cane made into the raw sugar. Stopped off to view Singing Tower of Lake Wales, Spook Hill and the Donald Duck orange juice processing plant where they had a rather pleasant experience. A "fella" came up to them and inquired if they were driving a car with Ohio tags and YL — they replied in the affirmative and learned the questioner was originally from Laurelville but now living in Mansfield, Ohio also on vacation in Florida. His last name was Shupe, but the Drummonds failed to get his first name. (The YL tags, by the way, are Laurelville and the family was using papa Doyen Bode's new car.)

Another pleasant experience was at the Cypress Garden water show. Miss Cheerleader of U.S.A. was being chosen and our friends cheered loudly for the cheerleader from Ohio University (also, she is a Worthington girl). She placed as 1st runner-up. Having attended O.U. several years ago, Marabel felt a certain kinship and it made the contest that much more interesting. From here they went to Clermont and the citrus Tower — to Daytona Beach and swimming in the Atlantic — to St. Augustine and its oldest house, the mission of Nombre Di Dias, the Fountain of Youth and Castillo De San Marcos. Crossed over the state line and started their homeward trek. They were back Thursday and the very first on the agenda was to have a happy reunion with that sweetheart, seven months old Joy Lane who had stayed with grandma and grandpa Doyen and Kathleen Bode at their home in Adelphi.

After seeing all the brochures, souvenirs, snapshots and hearing their excited talk the only thing to do is color me green!

Now to go from green to greener I chatted with two of our personable young folks just returned from the Rose Bowl — Jo Ann Trapp and Don Greenwood. Jo Ann was bubbling over with the gay good time and reported that the plane out traveled at 30,000 feet — 500 m.p.h. with a 100 m.p.h. headwind so the trip took over four hours but coming back it was 36,000 ft. — 650 m.p.h. and took three hours 27 mins. They were at the International Hotel close by Los Angeles air port which is several miles from all the "action." This proved to be a source of no little irritation to the more or less stranded students — of which there were 14 floors with 4 per room — so that meant a lot of unhappy people. But with the resourcefulness of their age group they managed. A friend of a friend of Jo Ann rented a car and all available space was utilized so they were off to the beach, toured U.C.L.A., took a quick spin through Beverly Hills but didn't see any movie stars.

By chartered bus they went to Disneyland and it is every bit as fascinating as advertised according to Jo Ann and Don, both. The tour of Universal City Studio left them both mighty disillusioned since the sets are all fake. They did, however, enjoy a stunt show put on to entertain the tourists and Don was impressed with the guy who trained the birds in the Hitchcock thriller "The Birds." He told how the trainer had one of the birds respond to directions both by voice and hand motions. Another interesting discussion concerned a well-trained dog who is supposed to be even better than the Lassie dogs. This particular dog is white with a black spot around one eye and his tall. I confess I forgot to question Don as to which eye and what breed of dog. He did say the dog would appear in the movies and on T.V. shows so we can all watch and try to identify the right one. The third string members of the team traveled on our people's plane and three of them shared a room with Don which was quite thrilling. One of the boys had lettered for two years but due to injuries was unable to find string this year. These boys took Don under wing and showed him a few of the Los Angeles sights and helped him gather some of the leaves out there for Biology such as palm leaf, orange leaf, fig leaf.

On New Year's eve the hotel (or the tour, I am not sure which) gave a party for the "swinging guys and gals." A good band with the members long-haired and wearing wild clothes but providing great music; party hats, noisemakers, and soft drinks.

The next it was roll out early because the buses left for Pasadena at 8:30 a.m. Arrived there at 8:10 a.m. and while they had good seats to view the parade the sun and trees made it very difficult for picture taking. At noon they were furnished a box lunch of fried chicken, potato salad, orange (of course) cupcake, milk and vegetable strips.

The most fantastic experience of all happened to Don during the parade. Thousands of miles from home — hundreds of thousands of people all around and he hears someone yell "Hey, Greenwood!" — he looks in the direction of the voice and would you believe — there is his Westfall football coach himself — Mr. Katterhenrich and his wife (sorry I don't know his first name but next year when number 1 son Marc reaches high school and football it will be a different story, right?) Anyway, they pose for a picture together and it just seems almost like a Ripley Believe-it-or-not. Don loves to play football and we hope he will one day play the Rose Bowl. If ever plain old grit — never give-up and out and out determination was used Don did with capital letters and he played mighty good ball, too. Dear old mom, Mary Alice Greenwood, was in their rooting at every game albeit she suffered through quite a few, too. Don has lots of mom's spunk and see a job through to its finish will-power.

The hotel had a victory supper consisting of spaghetti and meat balls — all you could eat — can you imagine the tons of hamburger it must have taken?

As Don said "It was fabulous" and Jo Ann echoes the same. It was indeed thoughtful of Don to remember us with a post card — we enjoyed it.

Jenny Hamman and Carolyn Ater, O.S.U. students from nearby Clarkburg were on the same plane as Don and Jo Ann. Others from our locality enjoying the trip were: Russel (Cotton) Timmons, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dunlap, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Anderson of Circleville and his brother Mr. and Mrs. Reed Anderson, Florence, S. Carolina but formerly of Williamsport. They were on other planes.

Sailor Returns
Returning to his base Sunday after a two weeks holiday leave is Bill Kneese, the only son of Melvin and Florence Kneese.

Bill will finish training as an equipment operator the last of January and is scheduled to leave in March for Vietnam. His enlistment is for two years and our hope for Bill is those are the fastest two years ever and safe return home. Joining me I am sure are his many friends and relatives and former employer Alfred and Sylvia Johnson and their son Steve.

Bill's present address is: William M. Kneese (CA) B43-52-29 E. O. School (A-Class 6812 Davisville, Rhode Island, 02854.

Another local boy service bound is David Schleich. He is to leave Wednesday (Jan. 8) for Lackland A.F.B. San Antonio, Texas. He will be missed by parents, Gene and Kate Schleich, sister Brenda and brothers Dan, Eric and John. Grandparents Mr. and Mrs. John Hooks are a bit misty eyed over his leaving also.

Cheer-em Up
Friends of Ron Beatty and Bernice (Mrs. Carl) Hunsinger will be saddened to learn both their mother and father Mr. and Mrs. Ira Beatty of Jackson are quite ill and are patients in Holzer Hospital at Gallipolis, Ohio. While Ron and Bernice were at the hospital with their parents, Sunday, Mrs. Beatty (Cora Lee) and children, Cindy, Bruce and Brad stopped over in Jackson with her brother and family Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oney and youngsters.

Speaking of illness, my dear friend Ann (Mrs. Roy) Strawser whom I reported two weeks ago as a surgical patient returned home (230 Wendy Lane Grove City) on a Wednesday and on Thursday (just before Christmas) her daughter Marcia became ill — was rushed to Mt. Carmel Hospital for an emergency appendectomy. She recovered beautifully. I am happy to assure all her friends and former neighbors. They lived just east of our village before moving about three years ago.

At our house father Bill is beginning to improve after a long siege and hopefully by the end of the week we will have banished all flu bugs from our abode. Becki has returned to school and Amy is once again her three year old in to everything self. Marc stayed healthy through it all and we pray he continues. We have had enough.

Also recuperated and back on the job as one of the good cooks at Jackson elementary is Maxine Lanman. She and husband Earl and daughters Bobbie and Susan had as Sunday dinner guests, Mrs. Marie Brooks of Circleville and Mr. and Mrs. James Dean and their dog Penny. Any day now the Dean's will be new parents.

Friends Visit
A day spent in fellowship with good friends is always a day well spent and so it was Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Jim Laveck, Dee Ann and Matthew and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bensonhaver and their four, Tammy, Kim, Diana and Torin visited with Mr. and Mrs. Mike McCafferty, Kelly and Kim.

Late Sunday afternoon callers at our home were my mother Mrs. Earl Hardman and my little nephew, David Barnes of Chillicothe. They had visited earlier with Kenny and Evelyn Hardman and family of Stoutsville. (O.K. Kenny and Evelyn?) They had told mother to scold me because I never wrote about it when she visited us.)

Happy Birthday
Marc Thompson, Jan. 11 (she will be a precious one year old) Kelly McCafferty, Jan. 14; Beverly McDill, Jan. 15; Florence McGhee Jan. 15; Ruth Long, Jan. 16; my beloved mother, Mildred Hardman, Jan. 17 and one young man, Ronnie Greenwood has a birthday this month, I'm almost sure, but I've forgotten the date (at this writing it is 3:00 a.m. and they would not appreciate a phone call) I think it is Jan. 10 so send him a card then.

Senior Citizen
Today we write about a well-known and highly respected gentleman of our community, but it is with a heavy heart we tell you Marcus Ebenhack underwent major surgery this morning (Monday) and had his right leg amputated just below the knee. His devoted wife told me he withstood the surgery better than expected. He and Elizabeth Wright were married August 11, 1910 — another long termer. They have six children, 12 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Mr. Ebenhack, born Jan. 15, 1889, has farmed all his life and is indeed proud of his heritage, his land and his family (not necessarily in that order) and proud indeed of the excellent candies and baked goods his wife creates. Her doughnuts are the best ever, believe you me.

Our prayers go on their way for dear Mr. Ebenhack and his recovery and for his family, too, with the heavy burden they carry on their shoulders.

Should anyone wish to and I hope all of you do want to send a card — get well and birthday (its Jan. 15, remember) he is a patient at Chillicothe Hospital.

When news of the Confederate surrender reached Union lines, troops began shooting off their guns. Gen. Grant ordered them to stop, saying "The war is over; the Rebels are our countrymen again; and the best sign of rejoicing after the victory will be to abstain from all demonstrations in the field."

Chromosome Count Eyed As Defense

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Does an abnormal number of sex chromosomes mean a man is unable to control his behavior? Raymond Tanner, convicted sex offender, is using that defense in Superior Court in an attempt to avoid prison.

Tanner, 33, is different from most men because his cells contain extra chromosomes—the tiny threadlike strands containing genes that determine heredity. He's an XYY whereas most men are XY. The Y chromosome determines maleness.

Since some scientists say two Y chromosomes in each cell instead of one may result in overly aggressive acts, Superior Court Judge Maurice T. Leader is deciding if Tanner may be unaccountable for his actions.

Leader, after a hearing which began Monday, will decide whether Tanner's plea of guilty to assault with intent to commit rape will stand, or whether he will be allowed to plead innocent by reason of insanity.

After the beating and rape of a Van Nuys woman last year, Tanner, 6-foot-3, of El Paso, Tex., pleaded guilty to the assault charge in lieu of attempted murder. Then he was found to be a mentally disordered sex offender.

A panel of doctors examined 200 inmates including Tanner at California's Atascadero State Hospital—all sex offenders over six feet tall. One of the doctors, John Melnyk of the University of Southern California, testified Monday that 8 of the 200 including Tanner were found to have the XYY syndrome.

Romney Eyes School Aid

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. George Romney, who is joining President-elect Nixon's Cabinet, urged Monday night that Michigan private and parochial schools consider abandoning secular education.

"I don't want the parochial schools closed," Romney told a reporter after his televised farewell address. He is resigning later this month to become U.S. secretary of housing and urban development.

Parochial schools should be "evaluated," Romney said. "I think they should look to having classes in the afternoons like the Jewish Hebrew schools."

In his speech, Romney said: "I suggest we seriously consider whether it would not be more desirable to leave secular education to the state, with churches—all the churches—concentrating on expanding religious and moral instruction."

"Once we start down the road of state aid to private and parochial schools, it would only be a matter of time before they were getting as much aid as public schools."

Commonwealth Meet Besieged By Protesters

LONDON (AP) — A thousand chanting demonstrators besieged Marlborough House today, and police cleared the way for the presidents, prime ministers and other leaders of 28 countries attending the opening of the first Commonwealth summit conference since 1966.

Police stood shoulder to shoulder around the home of the late Queen Mary while Prime Minister Harold Wilson opened the nine-day meeting.

Heads of state were caught in a traffic jam around the demonstrators. The singing, shouting crowd was so thick that Canada's Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau got out of his car and walked through the police cordons.

Africans protesting against apartheid in South Africa were joined by other demonstrators from Rhodesia, Nigeria, Biafra, India, Pakistan and Kashmir.

The nation's first patent was given to Samuel Hopkins of Vermont in 1790 for an improvement in "the making of Pot ash and Pearl ash by a new Apparatus and Process."

Chromosome Count Eyed As Defense

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Does an abnormal number of sex chromosomes mean a man is unable to control his behavior? Raymond Tanner, convicted sex offender, is using that defense in Superior Court in an attempt to avoid prison.

Tanner, 33, is different from most men because his cells contain extra chromosomes—the tiny threadlike strands containing genes that determine heredity. He's an XYY whereas most men are XY. The Y chromosome determines maleness.

Since some scientists say two Y chromosomes in each cell instead of one may result in overly aggressive acts, Superior Court Judge Maurice T. Leader is deciding if Tanner may be unaccountable for his actions.

Leader, after a hearing which began Monday, will decide whether Tanner's plea of guilty to assault with intent to commit rape will stand, or whether he will be allowed to plead innocent by reason of insanity.

After the beating and rape of a Van Nuys woman last year, Tanner, 6-foot-3, of El Paso, Tex., pleaded guilty to the assault charge in lieu of attempted murder. Then he was found to be a mentally disordered sex offender.

A panel of doctors examined 200 inmates including Tanner at California's Atascadero State Hospital—all sex offenders over six feet tall. One of the doctors, John Melnyk of the University of Southern California, testified Monday that 8 of the 200 including Tanner were found to have the XYY syndrome.

Romney Eyes School Aid

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. George Romney, who is joining President-elect Nixon's Cabinet, urged Monday night that Michigan private and parochial schools consider abandoning secular education.

"I don't want the parochial schools closed," Romney told a reporter after his televised farewell address. He is resigning later this month to become U.S. secretary of housing and urban development.

Parochial schools should be "evaluated," Romney said. "I think they should look to having class in the afternoons like the Jewish Hebrew schools."

In his speech, Romney said: "I suggest we seriously consider whether it would not be more desirable to leave secular education to the state, with churches—all the churches—concentrating on expanding religious and moral instruction."

"Once we start down the road of state aid to private and parochial schools, it would only be a matter of time before they were getting as much aid as public schools."

Commonwealth Meet Besieged By Protesters

LONDON (AP) — A thousand chanting demonstrators besieged Marlborough House today, and police cleared the way for the presidents, prime ministers and other leaders of 28 countries attending the opening of the first Commonwealth summit conference since 1966.

Police stood shoulder to shoulder around the home of the late Queen Mary while Prime Minister Harold Wilson opened the nine-day meeting.

Heads of state were caught in a traffic jam around the demonstrators. The singing, shouting crowd was so thick that Canada's Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau got out of his car and walked through the police cordons.

Africans protesting against apartheid in South Africa were joined by other demonstrators from Rhodesia, Nigeria, Biafra, India, Pakistan and Kashmir.

The nation's first patent was given to Samuel Hopkins of Vermont in 1790 for an improvement in "the making of Pot ash and Pearl ash by a new Apparatus and Process."

OUTSTANDING FARMER — Every year the Circleville Jaycees select from the community an outstanding young farmer. To qualify a candidate must be between 21-35 years of age. He has to get at least 2/3 of his income from the farm. Judging is based on efficiency of operation, conservation and the success he has made in farming. Last year's winner was Ed Taylor from New Holland. He will represent the Jaycees at the State OYF competition. Bill Richards from Circleville won the national title in 1967. The Outstanding Young Farmer will be honored at the DSA Banquet on January 20 at the 4-H & Grange Building. Local chairman is John Eshelman, Jr. Tickets for the banquet may be obtained from any Jaycee member or by calling 474-3344. Ladies are invited.

15,000 Motor Vehicle Titles Issued By Clerk Of Courts

Titles issued to motor vehicles in Pickaway County during 1968 totaled 15,056, according to a report issued by Sara Dresbach, clerk of courts.

The clerk also stated that 6,671 notations of liens, and 6,046 cancellations of liens were issued by her office during the past year.

For the last month of the year the office issued 553 liens and 479 cancellations of liens.

Titles to 140 new cars purchased in Pickaway County were issued by the clerk's office for the last month of the year. A total of 990 titles were issued for the month of December.

Chevrolets topped the record or cars sold in the last month of the year as they had done throughout 1968.

Second to Chevrolets year-end sale of 44 vehicles were Ford and Buick with 14 each. Next was Pontiac with 12 cars sold.

Oldsmobile sales during the month totaled 10; Mercury, 8; Plymouth, 7; Dodge, Toyota, Cadillac, Rambler and Chrysler, 2; Datsun, Volkswagen, Javelin, Simca, Opel, International and Ambassador 1.

Lake Pollution Bond Issue Up For Vote

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP)—A $1.7 million bond issue to help end pollution of Lake Erie here is before Ashtabula voters in a special election today.

The bond issue would help finance construction of an addition to the city's waste water treatment plant on Woodman Avenue. The addition would allow conversion from primary to secondary treatment of wastes discharged into the lake.

There were four travel trailers, five mobile homes, one semi trailer and one Mack truck sold during the month, according to the report.

Taxes from the sales totaled $26,204.88 and casual and use tax was $2,161.35 for the month.

Title fees for December totaled $3,240.

Child Neglect Cases Top Court Docket

Neglect of two children, ages one and two years, topped the docket of Juvenile Court recently.

Mary Ann Sowards, Lowery Lane, was found guilty by Judge Guy Cline of the neglect of her two children. She was sentenced to six months in the county jail and fined $500 with the fine and jail sentence suspended. She will remain on probation five years.

In other business before the court Michael Forrest, 16, 454 N. Court St., entered a plea of guilty to the charge of failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead. He was fined $25 plus costs and had his license suspended for 30 days. The fine was suspended.

A 17-year old boy, previously made a ward of the court, was granted permission to marry a girl, also a minor and ward of the court, due to her approaching maternity.

Two children were declared dependent and neglected children by Judge Cline and were placed in the temporary care of the Pickaway County Child Welfare Board.

Canteen, 'Y' Merger Still Being Sought

Board of Directors of the Pickaway County YMCA, during a noon meeting Monday, made plans for another effort at absorbing the operation of the Youth Canteen.

Robert Johnson, board chairman, noted that contact had been made for another meeting with the canteen committee to join efforts in serving the youth of the area.

A stalemate in the proposed merger was reached when two members of the canteen's governing body refused to negotiate with the Y board. However, Johnson said, a meeting is planned and once the overall program is explained we (the Y Board) feel sure a mutual agreement can be reached.

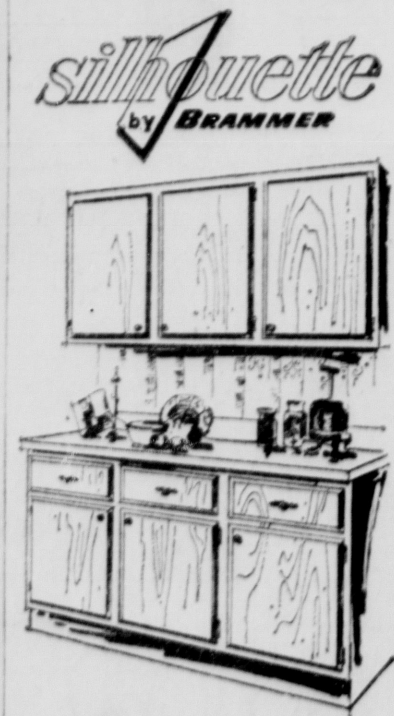

The canteen ceased to be a participating agency of the Community Fund Jan. 1. As part of the local Y program, overall activities can be expanded, the entire youth population of the county will have an opportunity to participate and better facilities will be available. The canteen has been operating in condemned quarters on the second floor of the Memorial Hall for several years.

In other business, the Y Board was informed that efforts to acquire the armory on E. Franklin St. were "very favorable."

Johnson said that a lease had been approved by the legal department of the Ohio Adjutant General's office. He said that Colonel William Totman, assistant Quarter Master General, had approved the agreement, but it was still subject to approval by the Adjutant General and the Central Office of the YMCA.

The lease calls for a monthly rental of $200 per month with the Ohio National Guard bearing the costs of maintenance.

The Air Force commissioned Condon's study in the face of persistent criticism of its own UFO investigations, begun 20 years ago and still continuing.

Critics of the Air Force claim its studies are biased against the possibility that UFO's are manned surveillance craft from outer space, and accuse it of withholding information that might prove the contention. The Air Force has vigorously denied both accusations.

The upcoming report appears certain to prompt renewed controversy.

Last May, the National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena—a private group that gathers information on flying saucers—charged that the Condon study lacked impartiality. The organization said it had broken relations with the Condon group after what it called 17 months of cooperation.

The House Space and Astronautics Committee held a "seminar" on UFO's last July. Ground rules prohibited specific discussion of the Condon project, but Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., asked Dr. James E. McDonald, senior physicist at the University of Arizona's Institute of Atmospheric Physics, whether more study than the Colorado project was needed.

"Emphatically yes," the witness replied. "We need a broader base. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration or the National Science Foundation ought to support some universities to make studies of UFO's."

In announcing the Condon project in October, 1966, Air Force Secretary Harold Brown said the University of Colorado had been commissioned "to analyze phenomena associated with UFO sightings," and make recommendations on the Air Force's methods of investigation and evaluation. He added that to the National Academy of Sciences review "will not be part of the investigation team, but will provide a further independent check on the scientific validity of the method of investigation."

Votes Recorded In Elector Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio's two U.S. senators cast opposing votes Monday as the Senate defeated 58-33 a resolution to invalidate the vote of a Republican North Carolina elector cast for George C. Wallace.

Sen. William B. Saxbe joined 12 other Republicans in voting for the resolution. Sen. Stephen M. Young and 27 other Democrats opposed it.

In the House, where the elector's vote also was permitted to stand, nine Ohioans favored a challenge of the vote and 12 opposed it. Favoring the challenge were Democrats Feighan, Hays, Stokes and Vanik and Republicans Ayres, Brown, Harsha, Mosher and Stanton. Opposing were Democrats Ashley and Kirwan and Republicans Ashbrook, Betts, Bow, Clancy, Devine, Latta, McCulloch, Miller, Minshall, Whalen and Wylie.

U.S. Force, VC Company Clash In Mekong Delta

SAIGON (AP)—Batting under the light of flares, a task force of 600 American infantrymen tried to encircle an out-numbered Viet Cong company in the marshy Mekong Delta Monday night.

The Viet Cong force was believed to number 100 or more, and the Americans reported killing 48 of them. But the rest slipped away sometime before dawn today.

U.S. casualties were eight killed and 11 wounded. Rarely in recent months have Viet Cong troops been brought to battle in such force in the delta. Helicopter-borne infantrymen of the U.S. 9th Division fanned out in the area today, trying to track down the survivors.

A U.S. spokesman said the enemy band was evidently a main force Viet Cong company, which normally numbers about 110 to 130 men. Most of the enemy forces in the area have recently been operating in squads or platoons. These groups usually gather only for planned operations, and it was speculated that this force may have been assembled to break the lull in the delta or was on the march to reinforce enemy units closer to Saigon.

The fight erupted when a company of the 9th Division's 1st Brigade ran into a concealed bunker complex in a marshy thicket of nipa palms on the north bank of the Mekong River about 69 miles southwest of Saigon.

The Viet Cong opened up from the concealed log bunkers, and the initial fire cut heavily into the Americans.

Helicopter gunships came speeding in to blast the Viet Cong with rockets, and more infantrymen were ordered up. As the Americans tried to close a cordon around the Viet Cong, circling flareships spewed Gatling gun fire into the enemy position.

Reports from the battlefield indicated the battered Viet Cong slipped out of their bunkers and made it to the banks of the Mekong a few hundred yards away.

In Saigon, police arrested a suspect in the assassination of Education Minister Le Minh Tri, informed sources said. Tri and his chauffeur were killed by a bomb thrown into their car Monday.

The suspect, wearing a military uniform, had in his possession the license number of the minister's car and a partial description of Tri's daily routine, the sources said. They added it was not known if the man arrested had Viet Cong ties.

Combat police were assigned to guard Cabinet ministers following the assassination and to give them armed escorts when they go out.

County Board Of Education Reorganizes

The Pickaway County Board of Education retained its same officers, but changed its meeting night from the first Wednesday to the first Thursday of each month when it reorganized recently.

Judson Beougher, Laurelville, was re-elected president and Wendell Evans, New Holland, vice president. Other members are Ralph E. Betz, Stoutsville; Harold E. Lindsey, Mt. Sterling; James Moody, Groveport.

George D. McDowell, by virtue of his office of county superintendent, is the clerk of the board.

Members of the county superintendent's staff are Mrs. Opal Y. Sims, elementary supervisor; Richard V. Smith, supervisor; Mrs. Norma Moats, secretary; Howard B. Norris, attendance officer.

Local School Boards Keep Same Officers

The three local boards of education in Pickaway County all held reorganizational meetings Monday.

The boards all maintained their same officers and personnel.

Mrs. Shirley D. Bowser, was re-elected president of the Westfall Board of Education and Troy McPherson was named vice president.

Lawrence Reid, Route 1, Williamsport, was re-employed as clerk. Reid is also a member of the board. Other board members are Cooke Metzger, Route 2, Williamsport; Richard Redman, Route 3, Mt. Sterling and Don Schleich, Route 1, Williamsport.

THE Westfall board meets 8 p.m. on the third Monday of each month.

Everett Beers, Route 1, Ashville, was re-elected president of the Teays Valley Board of Education. William Huston, Route 1, Ashville, was re-elected vice president.

Mrs. Esther Duval, Route 2, Ashville, was re-employed as clerk. Mrs. Duval is not a member of the Teays Valley Board. The members are William Hinkle, Route 2, Ashville, William Winter, Route 1, Ashville, Harold Peters, Route 1, Lockbourne.

The board meets 8 p.m. the fourth Monday of each month.

Mrs. Carolyn McCoy, Route 3, was re-elected president of the Logan Elm board of education, and Wesley Graves Jr., Route 1, Kingstown, was re-elected vice president.

Other board members are Donald K. Bower, Route 1; Roger D. Hobbie, Route 1; Arthur A. Leist, Route 1, Stoutsville.

Mrs. Thelma Trimmer, who is not a member of the board, was re-employed as clerk. The board meets the first Monday of each month at 8 p.m.
